BECK FACES TAX CHARGE

Gen. Nathan F. Twining becomes Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman. He was USAF chief.

Gen. Thomas D. White becomes Air Force chief of staff, from vice chief.

Donald A. Quarles is deputy defense secretary. Was USAF secretary.

James H. Douglas is promoted to Air secretary from under secretary.

AIR FORCE FLYING HIGHEST — The U. S. Air Force occupies top military spot in the defense setup with President Eisenhower's nomination of Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, to be Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman, succeeding Adm. Arthur Radford. Other promotions are shown. Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, was nominated for another two-year term.

One Dead In Traffic Accident

One man was killed and another critically injured in two separate motor accidents in the district today.

George Minda, 47, a Cokeburg miner, was killed enroute to work this morning when the car in which he was riding collided with a tractor-trailer on Route 71 near Cokeburg.

Michael Washlack, 44, also of Cokeburg, was slightly injured when his car went out of control while passing a station wagon, hit a truck, and piled up against a culvert. Minda and Washlack, driver of the car, were neighbors.

State Police said the truck was operated by Leroy Thomas, 30, of Bentleyville.

Minda's skull was fractured in the crash, police said. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

In the other accident, William Albaugh, 39, of Jacobs Creek, was injured critically when his car crossed a dividing strip on a highway near Smithton and crashed head-on with an automobile operated by a teenager.

Attendants at Frick Memorial Hospital, Mt. Pleasant, said Albaugh suffered a dislocated hip, fractures of the arm and nose, injuries to both eyes and a knee injury.

David Prah, 17, of Banning, driver of the other car, was released from the hospital after treatment for leg and face injuries.

Both cars were demolished.

Indictment Can Come Any Time, Attorney Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dave Beck's attorney said today he expects the Teamsters Union boss to be indicted for income tax violation "at any time now."

The attorney, Arthur D. Condon, told the United Press he believes a federal grand jury in Seattle will act soon against Beck, who said he has been warned he faces income tax prosecution.

However in Seattle, Federal Dist. Atty. Charles Moriarty said he knew of no forthcoming indictment against Beck. He said a regular federal grand jury will be summoned in June "in the normal course of events."

The Internal Revenue Service refused to comment on whether it plans to act against the burly Teamsters boss. A spokesman said only that action against anyone is customarily taken in the district where the individual pays taxes. For Beck, this is Seattle.

Committee Takes Breather

Beck gave his tax troubles as the reason for dodging 117 times behind the Fifth Amendment in two days as the Senate Rackets Committee charged he took more than $322,000 from Teamsters Union funds and still owes more than $50,000 to the nation's biggest union.

The belligerent Beck, said repeatedly a truthful answer to what he did with union funds might tend to incriminate him.

Beck, excused as a witness while the committee took a two-week breather, headed for Seattle today and the palatial home which plays a big part in his troubles with the Internal Revenue Service and the rackets committee.

He bore the grim promise of Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) that the committee will do its best to punish him for "utter contempt" of Congress.

McClellan, who said "proper propriety" prevented him from expressing his real opinion of Beck, seared the paunchy union boss with an angry concluding statement at the close of Wednesday's hearing.

Executive Council Meets

He said Beck had shown "arrogant contempt for the million and a half members of honest laboring people in the Teamsters Union...flagrant disregard and disrespect for honest and reputable unionism...(and) utter contempt for this committee, for the Congress of the United States and for his government."

The chairman sent a copy of Beck's testimony to the Justice Department — and said the Internal Revenue Service could have one too if it was interested.

Beck faced yet another hazard. The AFL-CIO Executive Council meets here Friday to consider what action to take against the Teamsters boss for his alleged misuse of union funds and for invoking the Fifth Amendment.

The council adopted a policy statement in February that any union official who invokes the Fifth Amendment has no place as a union leader. Walter P. Reuther, No. 2 man in the AFL-CIO and a council member, has indicated he will demand Beck's removal as a council member and AFL-CIO vice president.

House to Probe 'Pillaging' of Welfare Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Labor Committee voted today to investigate union welfare funds to prevent their "pillaging" by racketeers.

The House committee's decision came as the Senate Rackets Committee recessed temporarily its investigation of the giant Teamsters union.

Chairman Graham A. Barden (D-NC) said the House investigation would be no "sideshow" to the Senate inquiry.

Nor, he added, will it be "punitive" to labor.

Barden said the purpose will be to draft legislation to protect the rights of workers in welfare funds to which they are required to contribute. In many states, he said, these funds are inadequately policed. He said these funds total perhaps more than $35 billion.

"We want to get a job done that I think needs to be done," Barden said.

'Dave Beck Affair' Is Main Topic at Pittsburgh Parley

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The "Dave Beck affair" is the main topic at labor gatherings these days and it was no surprise when it came up for discussion Wednesday at the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor convention.

President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers told the delegates he will vote to uphold the AFL-CIO "code of ethics" when the group's executive council meets in Washington Friday to discuss Beck's troubles with the Senate McClellan committee.

McDonald said he intends to "support the integrity of the AFL-CIO no matter who might get hurt."

The code of ethics states that union officials invoking the Fifth Amendment during official investigations of alleged corruption should be ousted from office.

Helped Write It

"I helped write that statement," McDonald said. "I argued for it. I voted for it. And I will support it at Friday's meeting."

Gov. George M. Leader also may have had the Beck case in mind when he told the convention a "handful of union leaders are in need of a spring housecleaning."

Leader said, however, the vast majority of America's unions "need fear no appraisal nor fair investigation from any source."

He said there was no reason to expect "that the investigations will multiply so long as labor hews to the lines of its own established policy by rooting out the transgressors, keeping its own house clean and exercising the perpetual vigilance so necessary to its trust."

State Labor and Industry Secretary William L. Batt Jr. told the convention Pennsylvania's distressed areas need more assistance funds than the state can provide. He urged support for the amended Douglas Bill, now before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which would provide federal assistance to distressed areas of unemployment.

Denies Dragging Feet

State AFL President Joseph A. McDonough denied that the merger committees were "dragging their feet" as has been charged.

"Anyone who says this is indulging in procrastination," he said.

The PFL and the State CIO Industrial Council must unify their organizations by Dec. 5 or the merger will be effected by the AFL-CIO parent body.

McDonough said merger plans were begun in December, 1955, 12 days after the AFL and CIO merged on a national level. He said that as late as last Tuesday full committee held sessions to develop a constitution for a single organization.

State CIO Industrial Union Council President Harry Boyer, guest speaker at the AFL convention, said:

"So far as Boyer is concerned, it will be a merger and not absorption by either group."

March of Dimes Drive Reported 'Over the Top'

The 1957 March of Dimes campaign in Monessen "went over the top" by $2,335.38, Chairman Eli Alberts announced today.

The goal was $7,000. The committee collected $9,335.38.

Pittsburgh Steel Co. and its employes at the Monessen plant combined to be the biggest contributors, giving $6,164.25.

The Page plant of American Chain & Cable and its employes contributed a total of $988, Alberts reported. Other contributions were announced as follows:

Schools, $277.180 coin boxes, 1229 bowling tournament, $225.01; Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars, "Blue Crutch Day", $361.11; Eta Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi tag day, $118.50; clubs, organizations and scrolls, $525.60.

Final Voter Registration

The second and final vote registration day in Monessen yesterday showed 192 persons in the Democratic column as against seven on the Republican side. Nineteen persons changed from Republican to Democrat.

Total figures for the two registration days before the May 21 primary election show 433 Democrats, 13 Republicans, one Independent and one Socialist.

Yesterday 63 changes of address were recorded, for a two-day total of 123.

Admitted Slayer To Face Trial In Kittanning

KITTANNING, Pa. (UP)—Armstrong County authorities will prosecute Robert Talley Davis, 29, confessed murder-rapist, for the bludgeon slaying of a Leechburg housewife.

The former convict from Pittsburgh has been charged formally with the murder of Mrs. Emily S. Foster in front of her home Jan. 30. He confessed the slaying last week under questioning by Sgt. James Barger and Cpl. Metro Polosky of the Butler state police barracks.

A detainer detailing attacks on 11 district women has been filed against Davis and will be held by the Armstrong County district attorney's office pending outcome of the murder trial.

Davis will have a preliminary hearing after he obtains counsel. He may engage an attorney or be represented by counsel appointed by the Armstrong County Bar Association.

Davis was first linked with the slaying of Mrs. Foster, 25-year-old expectant mother, through lie detector tests administered by the Allegheny County crime laboratory. Results of the tests indicated Davis was lying when he said he knew nothing about the slaying.

The suspect was arrested March 8 when he forced his way into an automobile occupied by the wife and secretary of McKees Rocks Burgess David Hershman.

Pardons Board Probe Holds Stormy Session

HARRISBURG (UP) — The legislative committee investigating the state Pardons Board today was to receive letters which state Attorney General Thomas D. McBride said involve 16 cases in which "political leaders" attempted to obtain reconsideration or rehearings of clemency appeals before the board when it was under Republican control.

The receipt of the letters in evidence was agreed upon Wednesday night at a stormy hearing highlighted by a charge from a state official that the legislative inquiry was "essentially a political inquisition" directed against the present Democratic board.

The charge was leveled by Henry E. Harner, Harrisburg attorney who served on the Pardons Board last year when he was secretary of the Commonwealth. He is now general counsel of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Harner, in turn, was accused by the Republican majority on the committee of trying to "throw a red herring across the trial of the committee."

Harner contended the investigation into whether political influences swayed the board in some commutation cases was inspired by a Philadelphia newspaper in the controversial case of David Darcy, convicted Philadelphia slayer who together with two accomplices was saved from the electric chair last September by Gov. George M. Leader on recommendation of the board.

The Darcy case, Harner said, was then injected into the 1956 political campaign by former U. S. Sen. James H. Duff in his unsuccessful bid for reelection. Harner referred to Duff as "the Fifth Amendment Counsel" of Teamster President David Beck.

"It is highly significant that not

Marine Corps Orders Officer Held for Trial

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UP)—The Marine Corps today ordered a general court martial for an officer accused of assaulting a private who was a key witness in another recent trial at this recruit training base.

Maj. Ralph Wood, public information officer here, said "charges against First Lt. William O. Conroy of Queens, N. Y., have been referred to a general court-martial for trial."

Wood said Conroy would be charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

The charges resulted from an alleged altercation involving Conroy and Pvt. David L. Porter of Hartford, Vt., on the night of March 13. The incident occurred after Porter's charges against a drill instructor had led to Conroy's suspension from duty.

Porter was a key prosecution witness in the recent maltreatment trial of Cpl. William R. Walsh. The private accused Walsh of striking him in the head with some instrument. Walsh was convicted of illegally laying his hands on a recruit.

Conroy was the officer in charge of Porter's recruit platoon and has been suspended from these duties since Feb. 9 as a result of the investigation into Porter's charges against Walsh.

Wood said no date had been set for Conroy's trial. But under normal circumstances, it would probably begin within 10 days.

Woman Drowns in Pond on Farm

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Rachel Hanna Beggs, 84, drowned Wednesday when she slipped into a pond on the Dale Brewer Farm, Woodville Twp., Cabot RD 1.

The aged woman had been out for a walk when she slipped in the soft dirt and fell into four feet of water. Members of the Brewer family, who were in their home 100 feet away from the pond, pulled her out after she had been in the water only a few minutes.

Saxonburg volunteer firemen used an inhalator to no avail.

Fire Marshal Dies

HARRISBURG (UP)—Capt. W. F. Traeger, 65, state fire marshal for the last 25 years, died in a Harrisburg hospital Wednesday following a two-week illness.

Local Man Is Held Following Motor Accident

John Soltis, of 360 McGeary avenue, had the book thrown at him yesterday after a minor motor accident on Knox avenue near Sixth street, Monessen police reported today.

He is charged with operating a vehicle without a driver's license, failure to yield half the road, traveling too fast for conditions and disorderly conduct. He is being scheduled for hearings on the charges.

According to police, Soltis was operating a truck he owns when he struck a car belonging to Andrew Carollo, Sr., of 638 Knox avenue. Upon investigation police discovered Soltis was driving without a license. He had an expired learner's permit in his possession.

While in jail, Soltis, police said, banged the cell doors in defiance of his arrest. During the noisy demonstration Soltis caught a finger in an opening on the door, suffering a deep cut that required four stitches.

Yugoslavia Out Of the Red Fold

MOSCOW (UP) — Yugoslavia practically has been thrown out of the Communist fold, informed sources said today.

This became evident by a series of high-level Soviet charges that Marshal Tito's nation has given help to Hungarian rebels and by frequent new denunciations of National Communism.

"No one calling himself a Communist could have taken such a position," present Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar declared of Yugoslavia Wednesday.

Approving words from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin followed Kadar's speech, indicated Yugoslavia now is considered outside the Communist camp.

Krasik's Store Is Observing 50th Anniversary

Krasik's Furniture Store, of 551 Donner avenue, tomorrow will begin a two-week anniversary sale in celebration of the founding of the store in Monessen 50 years ago.

The firm started out as a small jewelry store at 462 Donner avenue in 1907 and was founded by David Krasik, his brother, Sam, and a brother-in-law, Dave Roskin.

In 1940 the firm was converted into a furniture store at a location at 540 Donner avenue. Two years later it moved into its present site. The present store had to be completely rebuilt after a disastrous fire in 1949.

Willard Krasik, son of David Krasik, joined the firm in 1938. Another son, James, became associated in 1946. Willard and James are co-managers, taking over the operation of the store following the retirement of their father, who took over the complete operation of the store about 1909.

Present employes of the store include Mrs. Sue Swanson, bookkeeper; Lee Klater and Robert McDowell, salesmen; John Bentley and Charles Mislo, truck delivery drivers, and Bernadine Turner, custodian. Mrs. Rosalie Krasik and Mrs. Natalie Krasik are also associated with the firm.

The co-managers announced today that the store is in the process of expanding, having acquired the second floor of a building next door, at 555 Donner avenue.

Besides the main store, which has four large floors of selling space, there is a warehouse at 818 Donner avenue.

No Passing Zone In New Eagle

A no passing zone has been established in New Eagle, it was announced today by Burgess Joseph Furiga.

The zone is on Chess street from Pine to the stop sign at the intersection of Routes 88 and 837 near Quinn Park.

"We have no sidewalks along Chess street," Furiga said, "and on rainy days in particular, pedestrians walk on the road.

"It is for the protection of these citizens, including children going to and from school, that we have acted."

Flood Project for Chartiers Creek

WASHINGTON (UP)—An Army Engineers' board Wednesday recommended a $1,286,000 flood control improvement on Chartiers Creek near Washington, Pa.

The recommendation was submitted to Maj. Gen. E. C. Itschner, Army Chief of Engineers. A report will be submitted later to Congress.

Dies in Hospital

NEW YORK (UP) — Murray Garsson, 68, one-time millionaire who was convicted of conspiracy to defraud, the government, died broke Tuesday night in Bellevue Hospital, his doctor disclosed Wednesday.

Local Man Arrested On Lottery Charge

State Police visited Monessen yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock and arrested Carl F. Maise, 30, for maintaining a lottery at Carlo's Dairy Bar, at Ninth street and McMahon avenue, which is owned by Maise.

A quantity of numbers slips was found in the establishment.

Maise was given a preliminary hearing before Second Ward Alderman Marion Reamer, of Monessen, and ordered held for court under $1,000 bond.

Prior to visiting Monessen, the police conducted a routine follow-up investigation of the Central Billiards poolroom at 517 McKean avenue, Charleroi, and confiscated punchboards.

Police said the follow-up investigation was made as a result of the raid police conducted at Central Billiards last Saturday.

No charges as yet have been filed against the alleged proprietor, Frank Mollis, of Charleroi.

And State Police were busy again early today, raiding the Marble Pool Room in Monongahela where a card game was in progress. Four men were arrested as visitors and John C. Karnack was charged as the operator of the game.

The officers confiscated cards, dice, money and a punchboard.

Loughran Campaigning In Monessen District

Former assistant District Attorney Joseph M. Loughran, of Greensburg, is in Monessen on a two-day stumping effort in behalf of his candidacy for judge of Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the May 21 primary.

Loughran is bucking the powerful County Democratic machine in his bid for the nomination. He himself was a staunch member of the organization until last December when he split with the party after a row with District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco. The latter is also a judgeship candidate, as is incumbent Edward G. Baver.

The party squabble in December had been smoldering from many months and finally broke into open flame when Sculco told Loughran to either give up his judgeship ambitions or leave the D. A.'s office. Loughran preferred the latter.

Since the break Loughran has been making personal visits to almost every section of the County. In almost every one of his talks, Loughran has been charging that the Democratic machine is being dominated by Chief of County Detective A. B. "Buddy" Turner, of Rostraver Township.

Loughran and associates are striving for at least 3,000 votes in Monessen in the primary. There are more than 10,000 Democrats registered in the City.

As far as could be learned, Loughran has not joined forces with any of the Democratic candidates for local offices, meaning those outside the well-knitted Monessen Democratic machine, lead by Mayor Hugo J. Parente.

Parente and Turner have been political associates for some 15 years. Loughran, who arrived in Monessen yesterday, is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Cupper, of 220 Schoonmaker avenue. He is expected to leave the City late tonight.

Presbytery to Hear Rehoboth Report

A special investigating commission looking into dissension at the Rehoboth Presbyterian Church in Rostraver Township will make its report tonight during a meeting of the Redstone Presbytery in West Newton.

Rev. Joseph E. Heckel, of Irwin, who is secretary of the commission, said that the report which took two months to complete will include recommendations. He said the Presbytery will decide tonight what parts of the report to make public.

State Highways Probe Expected By Next Week

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation for a full-scale investigation of the state Highways Department may clear the Republican — controlled General Assembly next week.

The House passed the GOP-sponsored legislation, 123 - 43, Wednesday over Democratic objections raised during a lengthy debate. The bill would create a 14-member Highways Investigation Commission with full subpena powers and a $100,000 appropriation to underwrite expenses for a continuing study.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) said the Senate would approve the legislation next Wednesday or Thursday.

Johnson told the House the investigation would not be a "witch hunt." He said the commission would study the "many" charges leveled against the department and its operations. Johnson said the charges alleged incompetence, a construction slow down, the planting of commercial engineers in the department, political firings of trained personnel, contract favoritism and mismanagement.

The Democratic minority said it agreed "basically" with plans for an investigation but differed on the manner and appropriation. The Democrats asked the inquiry be handled by the Joint State Government Commission, the Assembly's research arm. They argued it would be cheaper, contending the record $100,000 investigation appropriation was too high.

Johnson also said the Highways Department could be found to need more strict legislative control, contending the agency "lends itself to being a gigantic political machine." He said the department is financed solely out of the Motor License Fund with the governor having the final approval on all proposed highway construction.

Democratic Floor Leader Albert S. Readinger (Berks) said there was a danger the investigation would become a "political weapon" because the commission would not formally report findings until January, 1959. He said the Joint State Government Commission could "do the job within a few weeks."

Johnson said the commission hearings would be open, allowing newspapers full coverage of the proceedings. He also indicated the investigators would confine themselves to Gov. George M. Leader's administration, adding the commission "could go back to 1950" if it wanted.

The legislation provides that the House and Senate each name seven members.

Pardons

a single former member of the board has said one word in favor of this political inquisition," Harner shouted. "I say this investigation smacks of political fakery and hypocrisy. I would be delighted if you make me a false prophet but I haven't seen anything to indicate the committee will make anything but a political determination."

Harner argued the committee has been investigating only cases of clemency granted by the present Democratic board and added "Why didn't you investigate the cases under Republican boards?"

Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron), committee chairman, heatedly denied Harner's charges and said the group was formed by legislative resolution "to make an honest investigation. . .we're here to determine whether political influence was used and whether the board abused its authority."

Rep. Clarence D. Bell (R-Delaware) said Harner's criticism was "a deliberate attempt to put a red herring over on the people and an attempt to discredit this committee."

Harner also rapped Delaware County Judge Arthur P. Bretherick who recommended at a Feb. 28 hearing that the Pardons Board system as constituted be ripped out because it "stinks."

"Bretherick was a judicial god unto himself," Harner said. "He meant the board should be abolished so long as it didn't stand for the things he stood for."

Cites Committee Counsel

Harner attempted to raise a point of "conflict of interest" against David S. Kohn, committee counsel. He said that Kohn was attorney for Bowman F. Kennedy, Jr., a Blair County man convicted as a "lover's lane assaulter" and telephoned Harner after a board hearing in 1956 to say his client "had a meritorious case and he would appreciate my giving it consideration when it came up."

"But I gave him no assurance," Harner said under questioning. "I knew Kohn for 30 years and I certainly wouldn't hang up the phone in his ear and I listened to what he had to say. My reaction when I was approached by anyone was in the nature of resentment, though."

Kohn said he merely asked Harner to "look into the case."

Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, in a repeat appearance on the stand, testified briefly on commutations granted former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley and othes convicted in the 1954 Erie bribe scandal.

He said the board reduced the minimum 1½ year sentences of Flatley and John J. Martin, former police commissioner, to one year but later chopped that to 11 months and five days so they could be released before Christmas of 1955.

"The judges and district attorney felt the matter of two or three weeks prior to Christmas wouldn't affect anyone," Furman said. "They felt they had been sufficiently punished. In the case of Flatley he had fallen from high office and we could see no reason why they shouldn't be given the additional two or three wetks."

Another 'Quake

SAN DIEGO, Calif (UP)— A "fairly sharp" earthquake shook the San Diego area at 1:09.33 a.m. PST (4:09.33 a.m. EST) today, according to amateur seismologist Fred Robinson. However, authorities said they had received no reports of damage.

Catholic Priest Is Released by Communist China

HONG KONG (UP)—Communist China released an American Catholic priest, the Rev. Fulgence Gross, of Omaha, Neb., from prison today six years after his arrest.

Reached by long-distance telephone from Hong Kong to Shanghai, Father Gross told the United Press he expected to get out of the country "within one or two weeks."

"I intend to get in touch with the British consulate about when and how I am going to leave China," he said.

He was the second imprisoned American to be released by the Chinese Reds this year. Eight other Americans still are behind bars in Communist China.

Lutheran Missionary Paul A. Mackensen was released March 7 but has remained in Shanghai.

Gross, 53, said he is in good health.

SLAIN BY BANDITS IN IRAN — U. S. officials in Teheran Iran revealed yesterday that Kevin M. Carroll, 37 (above) was one of two American officials slain in an ambush by Iranian bandits two days ago. The American officials were killed with two Iranian drivers during a jeep trip into rugged country in southeastern Iran. Carroll's wife, Anita, was kidnaped and no trace of her has been found. (United Press Photo.)

American Kidnaped, Two Killed in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—The Shah of Iran personally ordered full mobilization of police facilities today to rescue the kidnaped wife of an American official whose husband and another American were killed.

Bandits from the wastelands of Beluchistan Wednesday attacked the Americans near Iranshahr. They killed Kevin Carroll of Issaquah, Wash., and Brewster A. Wilson of Portland, Ore., and kidnaped Carroll's wife Anita.

The Shah, who has visited the United States several times, took a personal interest in the case and issued orders for police to "do everything possible" to find the ambush slayers of the American Point 4 officials.

Police and Iranian troops converged by camel caravan and by plane on the remote area near the Pakistan border, just south of Russia.

A plane flew in from the east today bringing the bodies of Carroll and Brewer. Officials aboard the plane also reported to the Shah on developments at the scene.

The Shah sent his condolences to the American Embassy here after ordering his police to concentrate on saving Mrs. Carroll.

The American party was traveling in two jeeps in rugged country near Iranshahr when bandits attacked it from ambush, apparently in belief it was a police vehicle carrying the gendarmerie the bandits hate so much.

Iranian police jeeps have been active in the remote area recently and a few weeks ago came close to capturing the most notorious bandit of them all, Dad Shah, a 60-year-old marauder who has terrified settlements there for years.

The Iranian gendarmerie reported they had picked up the bandit trail near the borders of Pakistan and had begun an intensive chase under the personal direction of Parvis Afsar, police chief of the Zahadan Region.

Beck

1,500,000-member union, however, is strictly up to the Teamsters themselves. Their next convention is in September. Beck has declared he will put his case in his membership's hands by standing for re-election.

Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz) urged members of Beck's union Wednesday to oust Beck and Western Teamsters official Frank Brewster, who has figured in earlier committee hearings. Udall sent telegrams to all Teamsters locals in Arizona saying such action would be "a healthy demonstration of the basic honesty of the rank and file of the labor movement."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Beck had been under income tax investigation since 1954. Kennedy told the committee that this set off some of Beck's big-money maneuvers to restore funds he had taken from Teamsters treasuries.

Attorney Condon, who sat beside Beck during two days of drama-packed hearings in place of his oft mentioned chief counsel, former Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa), said a grand jury would have to act within "the next month or so, because of the statute of limitations."

The committee began a fortnight recess today while it prepared for new investigations, probably involving Teamsters activities in Scranton, Pa., and the Teamsters and Building Trades Unions in the New York area.

Soviet in Warning To Israel, France

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet government warned Israel and France today that new military action against Egypt would "raise the threat of broad military conflict" in the Mideast.

The warning was contained in a Tass news agency statement broadcast by Moscow radio citing "leading circles" of the Soviet Union" — a phrase which is understood to mean the Soviet government.

Pennsy Stock Change Reported In the Making

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that stockholders will be asked at the May 7th annual meeting to approve a change in the par value PRR stock from $50 to $10, a stock option plan, and changes in leases with several companies in the Pennsylvania system.

The company, pointed out that the stock change is in line with modern corporate practice and would not change the actual value of the stock nor the proportionate ownership of individual stockholders.

It would result in transfer tax benefits to stockholders, it was explained, and would also enable the company to undertake convertible debt or equity financing. Such financing is not in prospect at the moment, the railroad added.

The recommendations were explained in a proxy statement mailed to all stockholders with a request for proxies.

The proposed stock option plan is designed to provide additional incentive to men in the company's service. It would allow officers and employes in "responsible key positions" to be given options to purchase shares at 100 per cent of the market price when the option is granted.

The railroad said the stockholders would be asked to approve changes in certain leases to further the process of simplifying the corporate structure and reducing the number of system companies. One advantage of these changes would be to permit the elimination of five companies through merger, it was pointed out.

After approval by the stockholders, each of these proposals would be subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It is estimated that 50 per cent of all farm work in the United States is done by hand.

Turnpike Change Is Introduced in House

HARRISBURG (UP)—Administration legislation to rip out the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and replace it with seven-member unsalaried board has been introduced in the General Assembly.

The House bill, sponsored by Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger (D-Berks) and Rep. Anthony J. Petrosky (D-Westmoreland), would carry out Gov. George M. Leader's request that the commission and operation of the superhighway be drastically overhauled.

The legislation specifies the Pennsylvania Turnpike Board would consist of six private citizens and the highways secretary as an ex-officio officer. The governor would appoint the members, restricted to three from each major political party, with the consent of the state Senate.

The board itself would appoint a salaried executive director to administer the operations of the turnpike. The governor would have definite authority to fire members of the board under the legislation.

The present five-member Turnpike Commission includes two members appealing suspensions following indictment by a Dauphin County grand jury.

Leader, in a special message recently, said the legislation would lessen the possibility of defrauding the turnpike, help speed conversion of the highway to the interstate system, and thereby lift tolls, and save the Commonwealth thousands of doliars in commission salaries. The present commissioners receive $13,000 annually and the chairman, $15,000. They are named to 10 year terms.

The House Republican leadership indicated earlier they were not "impressed" by the legislation. Republican Floor Leader Albert W. Johnson said he was not "certain" the legislation would create a substantially better turnpike operation than the present commission.

Sisters Die in Oil Heater Blast

PATCHOGUE, N.Y. (UP)—Two young sisters died today in flames from an exploding oil heater which destroyed their family's two-story home.

The dead were Donna Maria Garcia, 3, and Letricia, 2. Their mother, Carmen, 19, was cut off from the children's bedroom by the flames. She tossed another child, Anna Maria, 16 months, from a second - story window to a neighbor and jumped with her 16 - year - old sister, Anna Maria Vasquez, from the same window.

Greek Cypriot Ordered Freed

LONDON (UP) — The British government today ordered Greek Cypriot Archbishop Makarios released from exile in the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons that Britain was also willing to offer an immediate safe conduct out of Cyprus for EOKA underground leader "General" George Grivas.

British forces on Cyprus are reported closing in on the guerrilla chief's hideout in the Troodos Mountains of the eastern Mediterranean island.

Dag Reports on Middle East

UN Secretary General to Give Egypt's Answer on Suez Problem

By UNITED PRESS

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold returned to New York today with Egypt's answer to the future of the Suez Canal and the U. N. Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Egypt announced officially today the canal would be reopened to traffic "around April 10" but there were growing indications the reopening would be on a provisional basis till its future is settled.

The status of the UNEF was in doubt. Egypt has made no move to oust it from the Gaza Strip or areas along the Gulf of Aqaba, but President Gamal Abdel Nasser has signed no formal agreement apparently because of Israeli refusal to permit the troops on the Israeli side of the border.

Dag Refuses Briefing

Hammarskjold, who said he would have no statement on arrival, was stern-faced and adamant in his refusal to brief reporters on his six days of talks with Nasser and other Egyptian officials.

He said he had gone to Cairo for "informal exploratory talks," that he had "had such talks" and "I felt that the most practical thing was to continue these same talks in New York."

"I hope my talks in Cairo have been useful, and I hope that the forthcoming talks here in New York will be useful," he said.

He waved off newsmen who sought to question him.

Aides said he would meet today with U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, and lunch with Lester Pearson, Canadian minister for external affairs and Hans Engen, the Norwegian representative to the U. N.

Gives Report Today

It was reported he may also see Israeli Ambassador Abba S. Eban.

Hammarskjold reports this afternoon to the seven-nation advisory committee on the canal.

Israel was making no formal statements pending a formal report on the Hammarskjold mission, but was holding to its demands for free passage through the Suez Canal as well as the Gulf of Aqaba and asking that the border along and Gaza Strip be quiet.

There were no reports of border incidents today.

Missionary in Talk on Africa At Baptist Church

The Rev. James Kreutter, an eye witness to the changes taking place today in the ancient ways of Africa, will speak at the First Baptist Church tonight and Friday at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Kreutter is a missionary to the Belgian Congo with the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society and serves as counselor for Christian groups as well as an evangelist.

Mrs. Kreutter is a registered nurse and has been in charge of a dispensary which meets the physical needs of the natives. The couple recently completed their first term of service in Africa.

Mr. Kreutter graduated from Moody Bible Institute and the Northern Baptist Seminary both in Chicago. Mrs. Kreutter graduated from Northwestern Bible School of Minneapolis and Mounds-Midway School of Nursing in St. Paul, Minn.

The Kreutters and their son plan to return to the Congo this spring.

Mother Held for Child's Death in Freak Accident

SCRANTON, Pa. (UP) — Mrs. Dorothy Donvito, 28, was arrested on a manslaughter charge Wednesday after police said the death of her six-year-old daughter last Friday was not the result of a freak accident.

The daughter, Loretta, was struck on her left thigh by a 12-inch bread knife which pierced an artery. She died in Scranton State Hospital 11 hours later despite six transfusions with blood rushed to her bedside by a state police relay. Death was attributed to loss of blood and brain damage.

Her parents told police the knife had slipped from an armful of dishes carried by the mother while Loretta sat on her father's lap in the kitchen of their home.

Police however said an investigation, started on information supplied by an anonymous tipster, disclosed that Mrs. Donvito had thrown the knife during a quarrel with her husband, Richard, 30, and that it bounced off a washing machine and struck Loretta in the thigh.

Investigators said that the couple had been drinking in a tavern last Thursday, accompanied by Loretta, when an argument erupted which flared anew when they arrived home.

Mrs. Donvito picked up the knife and tossed it about six feet, detectives said, and it struck Loretta's femoral artery, considered by physicians as one of the most vulnerable parts of the body.

Man Held for Stealing Nickel

HOMESTEAD, Pa. (UP) — Michael Yuna, 44, of West Mifflin, has been accused of stealing 8,474 pounds of nickel from the Homestead Works of U.S. Steel Corporation over a five-month period.

Authorities said Yuna, an employe of the mill for 22 years, smuggled the metal out in small quantities and peddled it to a Braddock junk dealer.

The stolen metal had a market value of some $6,000, but Police Chief James Armstrong estimated it could have netted $10,000 in junk yard sales.

Yuna was held in $2,500 bond for court.

$750,000 Proposed

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has received legislation to appropriate $750,000 to the Commonwealth to take part next year in ceremonies marking the 200th anniversary of Pittsburgh.

College Teachers Are Called 'Weak Links'

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —An official of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics charged today that college professors were the "weak link" in preparing prospective teachers of high school mathematics.

William A. Gager, of Gainesville, Fla., a Council director, said that the prospective teachers do not receive the same careful attention in math classes as engineers and mathematics majors.

Gager, addressing the council's 35th annual meeting here, said that although the courses set up for engineers and mathematicians were not well adapted to the needs of the prospective teachers, they must take these courses or none at all.

"The university professor raises a loud protest because his classes are filled with student poorly prepared in mathematic," Gager said.

"But among those students are some who will teach mathematics in high school, prospective teachers who will receive little or no help or encouragement from their professor to help them become good high school teachers."

"In due course these neglected students go back to the high schools as teachers and poorly prepare their students to go to college," Gager added.

"The logic of this situation is so straightforward and simple that it mystifies one that the college professor cannot see that he is the weak link in this unfavorable cycle of events," he continued.

The council official said that any college department of mathematics that does not "face up" to its obligation for the improvement of the cirriculum and teaching procedures, "is getting what it deserves when students come to it poorly prepared in mathematics."

Historians To Meet in Rostraver

The new Rostraver Township Junior High School will be the scene of the Westmoreland County conference, Pennsylvania Federation of Junior Historians, on Thursday, April 11.

The session will be highlighted by various historical exhibits and presentations and a visit to Fort Necessity, near Uniontown.

The meeting will begin with registration at 9:30 a. m.

Presentation of individual chapter topics is slated to start at 10:30 a. m., after devotions, led by the Harrold Junior High School chapter; welcoming remarks by Rostraver Junior High School Principal James O. Leeper and Rostraver Superintendent E. F. Carter; and the introduction of advisory council members by County Superintendent of Schools James Hughes, chairman of the advisory group.

The seven topics to be presented and the chapters involved are: The Earliest Camp Meetings, Arnold High School; Early Bridges-The Pennsylvania Canal, Derry Area Joint High School; Bushy Run Battlefield and Bushy Run Battlefield Restoration, Penn Joint High School; Earliest River Transportation, Rostraver Township Junior-Senior High School; Fort Allen, Harrold Junior High School; Braddock's Road, North Huntingdon Township Junior-Senior High School; Fort Ligonier, Ligonier Valley Joint Senior High School.

Closing item on the morning program will be a business meeting and an address by Avis Mary Custis Cauley, junior historian advisor of the state Department of Public Instruction.

Everyone Trying To Help Ike

WASHINGTON (UP) — It's a good old american custom for your friends and neighbors to prescribe for your ills, and President Eisenhower is no exception.

The White House disclosed Wednesday that Americans have been inundating the President with pet prescriptions for his nagging cough.

These include rock cand yand rye whisky, chest plasters, herb tea, throat ointments and numerous other liquids that were tried in grandmother's day.

The President's doctors do not think harshly of these folks. Still, they are sticking to more modern medicines plus plenty of rest. A sunny vacation next month appears to be the latest prescription.

'Senior Work Day' to Be Held Here April 9 For Exchange Program

Final plans have been made for the "Senior Work Day" program to be held Tuesday, April 9.

"Senior Work Day" is a project jointly sponsored by the Student Council and the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee.

Henry Furio, chairman of the Chamber's committee, said funds realized through this project will go towards financing the foreign exchange student program sponsored annually in Monessen by the students will be assigned to vari-Swinda Waldmann comes from Austria.

The "Senior Work Day" will offer the services of the senior class totaling some 220 students who will be excused from school to work for some local business firm from 1 to 5 p. m. on April 9.

Student earnings will be donated to the special foreign exchange student fund. Under this program the students will be assigned to various cooperating business firms to perform all types of chores. They will wash windows, scrub floors, clean out cellars, serve as gasoline station attendants, and sales clerks.

Members of the Student Council Committee, Cathy Parkinson, Joan Kachmarik, Michael Mayis, Connie Arcuri, Beatrice Tobacco and Ronald D'Angelo will visit local business firms tomorrow to work out student assignments for the "Senior Work Day."

Business firms who have not as yet indicated their interest in participating in this program can do so by calling the Chamber of Commerce office.

Dog Becomes Living Bee's Nest; Near Death

MIAMI (UP) — A sad-eyed daschund that became a living bee's nest when a queen bee alighted on his back lay near death from thousands of stings today.

Veterinarians said the little sausage dog, Max, was still in a coma and had little chance to live.

Max, owned by the Fred Opes, was huddled under an outdoor table when the queen bee alighted on his back Wednesday. Hundreds of bees, following their leader, covered the helpless dog.

Neighbors in adjoining yards ran to his aid. One tried hosing the bees away, but it only infuriated the bees. A policeman tried to get rid of the swarm but only got stung himself.

While a crowd gathered, the bees stung the weakened animal into a coma.

Fred Danker, a nearby motel keeper who knew about bees, finally came to the rescue. He took a small wooden keg and placed it near the limp form of the dog. Most of the bees swarmed onto the keg.

"When the bees were on Max, they looked like pebbles on a beach, but moving pebbles," one witness said.

Max was rushed to an animal clinic as soon as the bees flew away.

Haste Is Waste, Thief Discovers

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Haste made waste for a robber Wednesday night.

An employe of a supermarket at nearby Turtle Creek, after robbing the manager of $1,400, ran out of the store so fast he dropped 1$,000 on the sidewalk.

Matthew Dragan, manager of a Kroger store on Penn Avenue, told police he had just finished counting the receipts when the employe drew a pocket knife and took the money.

The employe, identified as Charles Aaron, 29, of Turtle Creek, did not stop to retrieve the money he dropped. Pedestrians said he jumped aboard a Pittsburgh-bound trolley.

Big Fee Increase On 'Pike

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is renegotiating a contract under which its engineering firm of Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., Rochester, Pa., would get an almost 750 per cent increase in fees upon completion of the entire Northeastern Extension.

Henry E. Harner, the commission's general counsel, said today if the commission and the Baker firm "can't get together in renegotiating this contract" the commission would be in a position to cancel it June 13, after giving 15 days notice.

"There is an expression of dissatisfaction in the commission as to how this increase is justified," Harner said. "The question is how can you justify an increase in fees from $3,300 to $25,000 a month. That's the thing that bothers us."

Big Increase

The contract agreed upon last Dec. 18 gave the Baker company fees of $3,300 monthly for maintenance and operation engineering services. Another provision would boost them to a maximum $25,000 a month when the entire Northeastern Extension is opened, probably next September or October.

The award was made by three commissioners — Chairman G. Franklin McSorley and Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler, both Democrats, and Republican James F. Torrance.

McSorley and Torrance were subsequently suspended from their posts by Gov. George M. Leader pending outcome of indictments returned by a Dauphin County grand jury.

Harner said that Lawler and Merritt A. Williamson, acting commission chairman, recently raised the point that some justification for the increase should be shown.

He said that the Baker contract and that held by the J.E. Greiner Co., Baltimore, former turnpike consulting engineers, were "very much alike."

Redevelopment Is Making Progress

MONESSEN'S ambitious redevelopment program seems to be making very satisfactory progress.

A delegation of public officials and civic leaders came home from Harrisburg Tuesday night with a $350,000 state grant in support of the Redevelopment Authority's initial project involving 27 acres at the extreme eastern end of the city.

Approval of this grant was a crucial first step, inasmuch as urban redevelopment, under present laws, is a joint undertaking of the local, state and federal governments. And in the three-way partnership, the state authorities occupy a pivotal position once the local community has made the original decision to undertake rehabilitation of its run-down neighborhoods.

The state grant of $350,000 is predicated on a contribution of the same amount from the city government. But the local contribution will take the form of street and sewer installations over a period of years and thus can be provided without demoralizing the city's finances, although no one should be under any impression that it can be accomplished without increased city revenues.

Since the total project is estimated to cost $2,100,000, the federal government's commitment will have to be $1,400,000. And the next step presumably will be to secure approval for this in Washington.

This may present difficulties as a result of the persistent clamor for cuts in the federal budget. Conservative members of Congress are inclined to regard urban renewal as an expendable item in the budget — at least for states and districts other than their own. So Monessen's redevelopment program, along with scores of others, is in the middle of the Washington budget controversy.

* * *

AT ANY RATE, our city officials and civic leaders continue to work with intelligent zeal on this program which means so much to the future of Monessen. The former may be somewhat inspired by the imminence of the municipal elections, but as we have noted here before, there is nothing wrong with political eagerbeaverism when it is producing good results for the community.

It is to be hoped, however, that there is enough zeal to last beyond the election campaigns. Redevelopment is no flash-in-the-pan operation, and a city which is not prepared for a long pull, with many difficult decisions to be made and perhaps considerable opposition to be overcome along the way, had better not get started on it.

But The Daily Independent remains convinced that this way lies a better, brighter future for this community.

Stop and Look

WHILE the record hardly suggests that Gov. George M. Leader is the best qualified critic of a sales tax bill, the Governor raises such serious objections to the measure which the Assembly has sent to him as to require a reexamination of the bill. It would be a mistake, we believe, to have the bill become law until the Governor's objections have either been sustained or demonstrated to have no merit.

Mr. Leader says the bill "smacks of greed an tax-dodging", of favoritism towards the public utilities and shipbuilding companies; he calls the bill "unworkable and unenforceable . . . a tax attorney's dream and a tax collector's nightmare," and claims it is "not fair in its application to the people of this state".

The Governor's administration of the present tax law has been demonstrably unfair and inefficient, which makes his criticisms of the new bill somewhat suspect immediately. And it is not beyond belief that Mr. Leader and some of his fellow Democrats in the Assembly would use the sales tax bill, which they know to be inevitable, as a spear with which to prick a little Republican flesh. It has been done before.

But even so, it is most important that this law be properly and fairly drawn and no less important that the public be convinced beyond doubt that it has been properly and fairly drawn. And we see nothing wrong with the legislature taking all the time necessary to provide this assurance.

If the Governor is playing a little pettifogging politics, that should not be hard to demonstrate. And if the Assembly has adopted an essentially sound bill, that shouldn't be hard to show either.

Merry-Go-Round—

Hoffa Was Involved in Insurance Deal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the most significant backstage developments in the Teamster probe is that scandalous facts had been unearthed regarding Teamster czar Jimmy Hoffa by the House Government Operations Committee in the early days of the Eisenhower administration. Then suddenly the probe was stopped.

Mr. Pearson

General Summerfield says he didn't stop it. The Republicans at that time controlled Congress. They stopped the probe. The individual GOP congressmen in charge of the probe didn't want to stop it, complained bitterly and publicly about the stoppage. But they were stopped anyway.

Here is what they had discovered at the time they were stopped.

Jimmy Hoffa, together with the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, placed almost $20,000,000 of welfare funds with the Union Insurance Agency, Inc. between 1948-52. The partners operating this agency were Rose and Allen Dorfman, wife and son of Hoffa's intimate friend. Paul Dorfman, who in turn is boss of the Waste Material Handlers Union in Chicago.

Insurance Deal

The insurance agency, in turn, placed its business with the Union Casualty Co., and the Union Public Service Co., organized by Leo Perlman, a refugee from Hitler, whose business, thanks largely to the Teamsters' welfare funds, mushroomed overnight.

His companies, in turn, paid Rose and Allen Dorfman and their agency "in excess of $1,000,000" in "commissions and service fees between October 1949 and June 30, 1953," according to the official finding of the House committee headed by Congressman Clare Hoffman, Michigan Republican.

"It was disclosed that approximately $101,000 in checks payable to Allen Dorfman were not deposited to the agency's bank accounts," the committee also reported.

When the congressmen asked Dorfman if he had paid this or any part of it to Jimmy Hoffa, he refused to answer. Time after time he pleaded the 5th Amendment.

It was also disclosed that Perlman's insurance company made fees of $1,200,000 from the Teamsters' and Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' welfare funds. These were funds which individual dues-paying members in Michigan and the central states had entrusted with Hoffa and with the IBEW for investment.

But suddenly, as the congressional committee was striking pay dirt, its operations were mysteriously and abruptly suspended. Said committee counsel William F. McKenna: "We were silenced before we could make public certain important financial-legal aspects of the Teamsters' operations."

NOTE — All this was known as early as 1953, yet no action was taken to suspend Dorfman's Waste Materials Handlers local charter in Chicago.

Senator's Insurance Co.

While the public is watching next week's special Senate election in Texas, the temporary Senator from Texas has been using his position to try to block an investigation into his private insurance business. He is William Blakley, appointed by outgoing Gov. Allan Shivers last January to keep the Texas seat warm until the April election.

Blakley is a soft-spoken Eisenhower Democrat who owns millions in real estate and professes no political ambitions beyond his three-month Senate term. He has behaved like model stopgap Senator, keeping discreetly in the background — with one curious exception. His only significant act has been to harass the Federal Trade Commission over its insurance investigations.

What makes this interesting is that Blakley's own company is under investigation as one of the worse alleged violators. In fact, Blakley personally was named a defendant because of his past habit of dissolving corporations that got in trouble.

Blakley is chairman of the Girardian Insurance Co., which the Trade Commission alleges has been using phony advertising to sell insurance policies. The company deliberately misled policyholders into believing they were entitled to insurance benefits that the fine print in the contract didn't allow, according to the FTC.

"Any examination of Girardian's advertising, when contrasted with the actual terms of the policies," charges the FTC, "can lead only to the conclusion that the advertising is false, deceptive, and misleading."

Epochal Event for Europe

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

When history permits us to look back upon the second half of the 20th century, we may well find that what happened in Rome this week will be the single most significant event of 50 years.

I refer to the signing by six Western European nations of two momentous treaties. One is designed to bring into being a continent-wide competitive European market of 160 million frontier-free consumers. The other creates "Euratom" — an instrument by which the same six countreis will pool their resources for the collective development of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Mr. Drummond

The ink will be dry on these treaties and the paper somewhat parched before these stirring goals are realized.

But, cynics to the contrary, they are in process of being realized. Seven years ago they looked like idle, wispy dreams. They are no longer dreams; they are the stuff of reality.

No treaty will wave these tremendous objectives into being overnight. It took 12 years for the 13 American states to transform the Articles of Confederation into the Constitution. But the fact is that, whatever difficulties lie ahead — and there are many — greater difficulties have already been licked and a vast, customs-free, invigorating European market is now within reach.

More Economic Freedom

This will be an economic, a political and a psychological achievement of incalculable beneficence for Europe, for the Atlantic community and for the whole free world. For centuries the productive capacity, the trade and the standard of living of the peoples of Western Europe have been famished and stunted by the protectionist barriers erected in front of narrow geographical frontiers. The capacity to produce was always there; the capacity to buy and sell was confined within sealed compartments where no more than a potential of 10 to 50 million customers could be reached.

Americans have long wanted to help Western Europe achieve the advantages of what has contributed so much to vigor and strength of the American economy; namely, a continent-wide common market. This was one of the objectives which Congress wisely wrote into the Marshall Plan and to which the Marshall Plan gave early momentum.

It is an interesting fact that at least since the end of World War II popular opinion has been well ahead of political leadership in Western Europe in supporting steps which would lead to greater unification. To guide its own information program the United States during the Marshall Plan years sponsored several professional polls on European attitudes and the results showed:

That the decisive majority of the 12 principal countries of Europe, include Great Britain, favored increasing political and economic union.

That positive opposition to European union was negligible, averaging about nine per cent.

Leaders Catching Up

European political leadership is now catching up with European public opinion.

One great impetus has been the good beginning which has been made by the European coal and steel community as a laboratory test of what a common market can accomplish. In four years steel production in the six member countries went up one-third. What is more revealing is that steel trade across the frontiers of the common market rose 25 per cent.

A continent-wide common market in Western Europe has become so practical, so imminent, so inviting that the British government, long wary and aloof, is proposing to associate itself with it and this point is significantly stressed in the Eisenhower-Macmillan communique from Bermuda.

It is almost impossible to overstate the potential for peace and stability which a United Europe can be. A prospering, dynamic Western Europe would do more than all else gradually to draw the Eastern European nations, both satellite or semi-satellite, into the orbit of freedom.

The time would come when history teachers will ask our grandchildren what happened on March 25, 1957 in Rome, Italy? The answer: Europe decided to survive.

Atlantic Alliance Is Still Intact, Solid

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Our knowledge of what went on at Bermuda is, as this is written, very meager, and so it is likely to remain until we have the commentary from London and Washington by men who have been talked to off the record. Yet it would be surprising if anything surprising comes out that is not already indicated by the official communique.

Mr. Lippmann

This says, if I read it correctly, that the basic Anglo-American Atlantic alliance for the defense of Western Europe is intact and quite solid. The reduction of military forces which the British are planning to make is to be compensated by the American offer to supply new high powered weapons, such as guided missiles.

Beyond this basic alliance, which is also the core of NATO, the old partnership is, as they say in diplomacy, fluid. For the Pacific and for Japan and as far south as Vietnam, there is no partnership but rather an American sphere of influence. In the Middle East and in Africa there is not a concerted policy. There are fairly well defined common purposes, and there are commitments, which are not rigid or very strict, to consult. But there are very considerable differences of opinion as to what the situation really is and considerable differences as to what we ought to do.

British Concede

We may say, I think, that at Bermuda the British conceded that Western policy in the Middle East should for the present follow the line laid down by the President and Secretary Dulles. This acceptance of American leadership was not, however, unreserved. Whatever may be said of Britain's loss of influence in the Arab world, it is a British vital interest to have access to the oil of the Persian Gulf area. Although there were no warnings or threats of any kind, there was a distinct implication at Bermuda that Britain would follow American leadership in dealing with the Arab states as long as, but no longer than, its vital interests are not sacrificed.

A most important consequence of Bermuda is that the President and Mr. Dulles, having been conceded the right to lead and to administer their own rather than an agreed policy, have now become definitely responsible for the consequences. They are already responsible, as a result of their one-sided pressure, for the security of Israel. Beneath the bland and polite surface of the Bermuda communique, one can read that they have acquired the same kind of responsibility for the security of British, indeed of Western European, vital interests in the canal and the oil of the Middle East.

The probelm of negotiating with Nasser is, we have come to realize, inordinately difficult because, as things have developed, we have deprived ourselves of the power to bargain with him. We have given him a guarantee that we will not use force. We have given him specific proof that we will not allow Britain, France and Israel to use force. We have conceded that the U. N. has no independent authority and that it can act only with his consent. We have given him reason to believe that there is little likelihood of our agreeing to use sanctions against him. On the other hand, we have very little to offer him as a reward for substantial concessions.

Under these conditions it is unfair to expect Mr. Hammarskjold to wring from Nasser the concessions which Nasser is under no pressure to concede. The administration is well advised, no doubt, to try to negotiate with President Nasser through Mr. Hammarskjold. But we must never lose sight of the fact that while Mr. Hammarskjold may be the most acceptable negotiator, he has no bargaining power of his own beyond that which the United States possesses.

We ought not, therefore, to allow the world to think that we have abdicated our own responsibility and are leaving everything to Mr. Hammarskjold. For it is only as we accept the responsibility of restoring our power to bargain with Nasser that Mr. Hammarskjold can be expected to negotiate successfully.

The Lighter Side—

A New Word for It

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Dim views on glaring subjects:

With Teddy Nadler, the St. Louis quizbang, soaring to new summits of wealth with his ability to spew facts upon the TV screen, let us consider a new word to describe persons suffering from overstuffed brain. How about "nadlerized?"

Or, perhaps, for the sake of simplicity, just "nadled."

No, that's too simple. Maybe "nadlepated" is better.

Broadway, a place which show people often have thought should be renamed agony alley, will blossom out with some true torture instruments next month with the opening of a "Ripley Odditorium."

This back-to-Barnum movement has an entire section devoted to 54 fiendish medieval torture implements, starting out with a flesh pincher, an eye spike, a spiked collar, a mouth opener, and a "ladle mouth gag band funnel," which sounds utilitarian at least.

Then, you progress to such automation as: Finger crusher, shin breaker, spiked cradle, spiked whip, beating bat, wrist crusher, leg crushers (both wooden and metal), oil ladle, spiked rolling pin, and "torture rack with wheel to break back."

One item on the menu which is not described but which must certainly be a Charles Addams delight is labeled simply "heretic catcher."

People never had it so bad as in the good old days when knights were bold and chicanery flowered.

There's a gent named Pat Anthony, a former paratrooper with the 11th Airborne Division, the outfit that jumped into Luzon and helped retake Manila in World War II, who knew what he wanted when the war was over. He wanted to educate himself under the GI Bill of Rights.

So he did. Took an intensive course in lion taming at a wild animal farm, and now he's in a lion training act with the Hamid-Morton, Hunt Brothers combined circus. No one can say the GI bill didn't help him get a liberal education.

Postal Pay Increases

To the Editor:

Branch 1021 of the National Association of Letter Carriers and Branch 2175 of the National Federation of Postal Clerks of Monessen, wish to take this opportunity to bring to your attention, the efforts being put forth by our organizations to secure an adequate and equitable salary increase for our members.

Since 1939, wages in private industry have increased 226 per cent, compared to 103 per cent for postal employes. Government reports show that the cost of living has increased again in January, resulting in an automatic increase for private industry. In the postal service an employe with 25 years service can only attain the maximum yearly salary of $4,710.

It is a well understood fact that postal and federal wages are subject to the slow processes of legislation in Congress, rather than being negotiated for, and traditionally follow, rather than cause, economic changes.

It is therefore that we solicit the public's help and cooperation in this cause. Persons can do so by writing to Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Jr., and Edward Martin and Rep. Augustine B. Kelly, asking them to support Bills S 27 and H. R. 2474, which deal with a salary increase for postal workers, and also S 386 and H. R. 6, which are personnel management bills, known better as union recognition.

The Eight Queens were entertained recently at Peasant Village with Patty Stronske as hostess. Two tables of cards were in play and the high score prize was won by Margaret Evich. Mrs. Donna Dias was the winner of the floating prize.

Luncheon was served and plans were made to meet in two weeks at the home of Doris Gregg, of Speer street, Belle Vernon.

Annual Banquet Held Here By Practical Nurse Group

The Pennsylvania Practical Nurses Association annual banquet was an event of last night at Johnson's restaurant with about 70 members and guests in attendance.

Mrs. Lynn Hartbarger, banquet chairman, served as toastmaster for the program which followed the serving of a turkey dinner at tables arranged with spring flowers and lighted tapers. Miniature wishing well favors marked each cover.

The affair was arranged in honor of the Monongahela Valley doctors, one of whome was present, Dr. W. R. Vernon, of Perryopolis.

Invocation and benediction were asked by the Rev. Vernon Bowers, of the First Christian Church and Denver Rhome was pianist entertaining informally as the guests gathered.

Presented as the guest speaker was Virginia Lange, director of nurses at Passavant Hospital, Pittsburgh. Miss Lange outlined the work of the practical nurse and the difficulty encountered by them as they enter the nursing field. She also gave a legislative explanation of the licensing program, which must be met before a practical nurse can work.

A musical program of entertainment was also presented. The Four Specs, Dave Victoria, Joe Lancas, Jimmy Tucci and Walter Labeka presented selections, Linda Fero, of Charleroi, presented a popular pantomime and dance; Lois Ann Shephard sang selections accompanied by her sister, Mary Jo. A vocal trio, Mrs. Glenn Barnes, Mrs. Donald Ries and Mrs. John Wilding were well received in speciaities.

Mrs. C. A. Duvall, association president, was then presented in a tribute to doctors in which she included an original poem, "Hi Doc".

The evening concluded with the friendship circle and singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again".

Mrs. Hartbarger, who trained as a nurse at Brownsville General Hospital, but did not complete her training and now serves as a practical nurse, arranged the banquet. She also introduced the many guests present including representatives of the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Kiwanis, Charles Hagerstrand, president of the Chamber of Commerce and George Cieply, executive secretary of the Chamber, representatives of City Council, Dave Weiss, Association attorney, Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of Monessen Public Schools, Margaret Brown, school nurse, Ruth Conrad, State Nurse, Harry R. The remainder of the evening featured an amateur program and the prize was won by Richard Albert.

Troop 2 Brownies Hold Meeting At Civic Center

Girls of Brownie Troop 2 met yesterday in the Civic Center with the leader, Mrs. Michael Cenkner, in charge.

The girls studied table setting and table manners.

Next week the group will make cookies.

LOCALS

Mrs. James Angeline of 925 Schoonmaker avenue, has been discharged from St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, where she had been a patient for the past three weeks and is now convalescing at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John Gatto of Donora.

Due to illness of the speaker, Mrs. Beatrice Gudridge, of Washington, D. C., the meeting of the Association for Childhood Education scheduled for this evening has been postponed until a later date at California State Teachers College.

Roseanne Vesio has returned to her home in Monessen after being a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Mrs. Ted Walker is confined to her home on Grant street by illness.

Fashion Show, Food Revue Set by Quota

A covered dish dinner served at 6:15 at the Civic Center preceded the meeting of Monessen Quota Club held last night. In the absence of the president, Julia Mazur, the second vice president, Mrs. Helen Gribben, presided.

Further plans were discussed for the fashion show and cooking school planned by the group. It will be sponsored in conjunction with the Peoples Natural Gas Co.

The event has been titled, "Food and Fashions" and it will be staged on May 9 in the Monessen High School auditorium. Mrs. Gribben will be the general chairman and Miss Bessie Preston will serve as commentator. Prizes will be presented to all who attend and there will be special gifts given throughout the evening.

There will be a candy and cookie sale in the lobby of the school and tickets will soon be available from any of the Quota members. Various committee appointments are being made to arrange the affair.

The next meeting of the club has been set for Wednesday, April 3, at Johnson's Cape Cod room and officers for the next year will be elected at that time.

Election Held By Dames of Malta Lodge

The Dames of Malta Sisterhood met on Tuesday evening in the Phythian Center and the election of officers highlighted the meeting.

Plans were made for the installation to take place on April 9 and the initiation of new members will be held at the following meeting.

Announcement was made of the Dames of Malta union meeting in Pittsburgh on May 10 with a banquet at 6:30. The local group will be represented.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Bessie Roberts.

Games were played and winning prizes were Mrs. Pearl Kimball, Mrs. Roberta Wiles and Mrs. Agnes Jackson.

Area Scout Council Meets

The Area Girl Scout Council met for a business session at the American Legion Home in Fayette City. Before the business meeting Francine Gill gave a report on the Conference which she attended in November along with Beatrice Tobacco and Mrs. Edwin Dawson, council president. Miss Gill was a member of the Senior Planning Board.

Mrs. Helen Dolan reported on the last meeting of Council and Mrs. Margaret Schilling, treasurer, gave the financial statement. It was announced that Gwen Mitchell has been appointed community adviser for this area. Miss Mitchell expects to visit this area between April 9 and 11th. This area has been chosen for a study by National Headquarters.

The Triad report was given by Mrs. Georgina Superfisky. The Day Camp committee meeting report was made by Mrs. Everett Vernaccinni.

Day Camp for intermediate scouts will be held the week of June 17th and for Brownie Scouts, the week of June 24.

Training Course

Mrs. Charles King, Jr. reported that the planned training course will start April 24th in Monessen and on Thursday, April 25th in Belle Vernon. The course will extend through four weeks.

Mrs. William Parkinson gave the report of the Juliet Low fund collection and the financial statement was by Mrs. George Egler. Both are of Monessen.

Mrs. Charles R. McConnell, of Belle Vernon, registrar, announced that Area Council members must register in May for the coming year.

At the conclusion of the meeting luncheon was served by members of the Fayette City Neighborhood Committee.

The Triad Neighborhood Committee will be hostesses at the May meeting.

McKeesport Coach Begins 29th Season

McKeesport High baseball coach Abby Fallquist, who was scheduled to bring his boys to Monessen today for an exhibition game, will be starting his 29th season at the Tiger helm. That makes him dean of WPIAL diamond coaches . . . Speaking of McKeesport, the Tiger basketballers will sit in on Saturday's state title game in Philadelphia. The Student Council promoted a benefit basketball show the other night to finance the trip . . . Jack Parr, ex of Brownsville, and Bob Motil, former Redstone athlete, are among the farmhands at the Brooklyn Dodger training camp in Vero Beach, Fla. . . . We have a hunch Chester will upset Sharon in the title game at Philly on Saturday.

* * *

Monessen and Donora will play their football game on Friday, Nov. 15, this season after all. The Dragons had previously asked Monessen officials for permission to move the game back to Saturday to satisfy hometown businessmen. However Donora biggies have since decided to stick to the usual Friday date . . . Gil Shoaf, who comes from a football family in Brownsville, recently signed a Philadelphia Eagle contract. Gil was a standout tackle for Wabash College the past couple of seasons where he attracted the attention of professional scouts.

Want Monessen in Mon Valley League

Monessen will be represented in the Mon Valley League if other teams have anything to say about it. Here's an off-the-cuff comment from the business-manager of one team: "Naturally we want Monessen in the league. You can't afford to let sandlot baseball die in any valley community if you expect to maintain a strong valley league." . . . Incidentally, it's pretty definite that the Ozarks will sponsor a baseball team this season if those rumors are true about Monessen CIO dropping its valley franchise . . . John Conte, Monongahela High principal and member of the WPIAL Baseball Committee, is mending satisfactory after an ulcer attack which hospitalized him suddenly during the recent WPIAL banquet.

* * *

Most district football coaches will sit in on the annual spring clinic at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport on Saturday. The event is sponsored by the West Penn Coaches Association. The main speaker will be Forrest Evashevski, successful Iowa football coach . . . The fourth annual all-star football game between schoolboys from Washington and Fayette Counties will be held Tuesday, Aug. 13, at Washington High School . . . Incidentally Charleroi's Rab Currie has withdrawn from the Washington County coaching staff in order to take part in the annual Pittsburgh Jaycees all-star promotion.

Suggests New System for Cage Scores

With basketball season just about over, Ed Plevel, a Monessen reader, offers this suggestion for next season: "In the future, why not list the home team first in your summary of basketball results, regardless of the winner? Since home floors mean so much in basketball, it's interesting to know that factor as well as the score." . . . On the subject of basketball, Uniontown High figures to have another good team next season with both Mel Freeman and Sanford Stephens back. Another junior, Ken Fairfax, will be too old by the time the 1957-58 campaign rolls around.

Aging Veterans Carry Cincy Pennant Hopes

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Two aging veterans could spell the difference today for the pennant hopes of the Cincinnati Reds.

There is no question but what the burly Redlegs have the batting muscles. As usual, the problem is the pitching.

But Warren Hacker and Russ Meyer may supply the answer for a club which finished only two games back last season.

Word out of the spring training camps is that Hacker may do it all by himself. The big pitcher, obtained from the anemic Chicago Cubs in November, will find it a novelty being with a club which can get him some runs.

Only Eight Runs

He was only 3-13 last season, but small wonder. In seven of those unlucky 13 defeats the Cubs gave him a total of only eight runs. Earlier, when he lost eight in a row, the Cubs didn't get him a single run over a span of 30 innings.

There is doubt that even a Bob Feller could win with such listless batting support and this accounted for Hacker's feeling that "I had to strike out everybody to win a game."

A sidearm fastball pitcher with an adequate knuckler, the 32-year-old Hacker has looked good in spring training.

Meyer, who also was obtained from the Cubs late last season, had a mere mark of one win against six losses last season. But the "Mad Monk" hurt his arm against Brooklyn in June and never was right thereafter.

"I've been throwing harder than at any time since then," he glows. "There's no pain and I believe I'm on my way to regaining my stride."

The 33-year-old Meyer, who won 17 games in 1949, also has something lese going for him. Finally, he contends, he has learned to control the explosive temper which provided his nickname.

"When I got mad, I started throwing instead of pitching," he admits. "It was no way to be and I had to learn to control myself. I think I've done it."

If he has, even at this stage of his career, Meyer could be a surprise benefit to the pitch-poor Redlegs

Hacker is the big hope to provide the winning difference and could be the deciding factor of the pennant race Anything Meyer contributed would be that much gravy.

Two Sweeps in Saints League

St. Vincent blanked Fordham and Notre Dame swept over Duquesne in St. Cajetan Bowling League action last night.

In another match, Georgetown took a pair from St. Francis.

Scoring leaders were John Catanzaro, 177-487; Carmine Santoro, 168-478; Al Greco, 173-486; Ernie DeLuca, 145-375; Joe Bafile, 186-476; and Joe Luketich, 171-450

Standings show Notre Dame, 25-9; St. Vincent, 18-15; Duquesne, 17-16; St. Francis, 17-16; Georgetown, 16-17; and Fordham, 7-26.

By UNITED PRESS

Chester and Sharon won regional finals of the PIAA Class A basketball tournament Wednesday night—Chester with a hard-earned 52-46 victory over Reading and Sharon with a fairly easy 49-38 triumph over Pittsburgh Oliver.

The victories gave Chester, of District 1, and Sharon, of District 7 (WPIAL), the right to meet at the Palestra in Philadelphia Saturday night for the state championship.

Chester started off strong in the eastern final before 8,500 fans at the Arena in Hershey and it looked as though the Clippers were in for an easy time. They led by 11 points in the second period before the Red Knights from District 3 found the range.

Foul Shooting Tells

Reading's Willie Pegram, Jerry Jankans and Chris Hiotis started hitting on their shots and the Red Knights left the floor at intermission trailing by only two points, 25-23. They kept the rally going in the third period and held a 33-27 lead, but at that point Billy Wilson's accurate foul shooting began to pay off for Chester. Wilson sank four foul tries and Jerry Foster added a field goal to make it a tie game at 35-35 going into the final period.

Reading took the lead again at 37-35 in the first minute of the final period, but two free throws by Wilson and a goal by Charley Davidson gave Chester the lead and the Clippers never again fell behind.

Chester's foul shooting played a major role in snapping Reading's 20-game winning streak. The Clippers, outscored from the field by four goals, dropped in 26 of 33 foul shots. Wilson accounted for 15 of the 26 and was the game's high scorer with 25 points. He missed only twice from the foul line.

Oliver Outclassed

Pegram led Reading with 17 points.

Sharon took a 16-8 first period lead in the western final before 3,168 fans at the Pitt Field House in Pittsburgh and it was apparent then Oliver was outclassed. The Bengals led, 34-20, at halftime, relaxed and got a mild fright in the third period when Oliver rallied and outscored them 12-5. That cut Sharon's lead to 39-32 at the end of the third period, but the team settled down and had no trouble after that.

Mark DuMars led Sharon with 15 points. Oliver center Don Clisby took game scoring honors with 21 points, including eight consecutive fouls in the third period.

Sharon to Fly To Philadelphia

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—The Sharon High basketball squad will leave for Philadelphia by plane from the Youngstown, Ohio, Airport Friday morning.

The Bengals will work out at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra Friday afternoon.

More than 500 fans are expected to leave by special train for Philadelphia Saturday morning, arriving late in the afternoon.

Florists Keep Parlors Lead

Mihalich won a pair of games from the Ravens and Florists took two from the Diethornes in Parlors League bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were Mike Adamio, 214-545; Bill Valko, 183-526; Jim Szabo, 177-501; Coon Ranallo, 200-475; Leo Lewitsky, 199-487.

Standings show Florists, 25-14; Diethornes, 20-19; Mihalich, 19-20; and Ravens, 14-25.

Only two weeks remain in the second half race. The Diethornes are first half champions.

Gordon Named on UP All-State Team

Editors note: The United Press today announced its 1957 All-State Scholastic Basketball Team chosen from Class "A" schools throughout Pennsylvania. The squad was selected by ballot among more than 300 Pennsylvania sports editors, sports announcers and high school coaches.

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

Six standout court stars who sparked their teams to the top in their respective districts today were named to the United Press 1957 all-state schoolboy basketball team.

With one exception, the six were head and shoulders above the remainder of the field in the balloting among more than 300 coaches and sportswriters which resulted in the selection of the team. McKeesport's Lanny Van Eman ran fairly close behind Altoona's Swanner and Washington's Gordon in the voting.

On the basis of their season scoring records, any five of the six would comprise a team which would regularly hit more than 110 points per game. Mlkvy's 28-point plus average for the season was only a notch ahead of Heffner and his 27-point per game record. Mlkvy was high man in the balloting by a shade over Heffner, the only repeater from the UP's 1956 team. Mlkvy was a second team and Jones a third team choice last year.

One of the unusual features in the make-up of the three six-man teams lies in the fact that only two of the 18 chosen came from teams which did not capture their league titles. All of the first and second team members came from aggregations which won loop honors. But Punxsutawney's Steiner and Steelton's Biesecker played for schools which finished well out of the running. Biesecker, however, was Central Penn League's top point maker.

Mlkvy Top Scorer

The six-foot, four-inch Mlkvy scored more than 700 points this year, exclusive of the two playoff games in which Palmerton participated. During his career he racked up just under 2,000 markers. He was probably the best pivot man in the state and a fine rebounder.

Heffner, also six-foot, four inches tall, twice hit 41 points on foreign courts in the always-rugged Eastern Penn League. He was the brain and muscle of an Allentown team which went unbeaten until running into Chester in an inter-district game in the state playoffs.

Jones, the tallest man on the first team at six and a half feet, was the major holdover from Farrell's 1956 state champions. He was the top scorer in the WPIAL's Section Three, the league which made a habit in recent years of turning out state champions.

DuMars gained a well-earned reputation as a "clutch" man in Sharon's unbeaten season. He is the team's playmaker and was called by many coaches the best all-around floor man in the state. He and Gordon are the small men of the team at five-feet, 10 inches.

Averages 23 Points

Swanner averaged 23 points a game as Altoona reached the western semi-finals of the playoffs before dropping before Sharon. The six-foot, three-inch forward also averaged 14 rebounds and generally was credited with being the sparkplug of the Mountain Lions.

Gordon played four years of varsity ball for Washington and most western Pennsylvania coaches said his work almost singlehandedly got Washington into the WPIAL playoffs. He was termed the "best boy to come out of southwestern Pennsylvania in years—one who does everything well."

Irish, Dogs Win In GAPA Action

Irish won two games from the Trojans and Bulldogs took a pair from the Panthers in GAPA League bowling last night.

Leading scorers were Stan Louis, 175-424; Coon Ranallo, 168-447; Chuck Miller, 172-450; and Ted Mermigas, 160-435.

Standings show Bulldogs, 23-13; Trojans, 19-17; Irish, 18-18; and Panthers, 12-24.

Title Games in Both Divisions Tomorrow Night

The field for the sixth annual Ozark Basketball Tournament was reduced to two teams in each division today, setting the stage for tomorrow night's championship games.

The Monessen Links will meet the Monessen Tracys at 8 p. m. for the junior division title while Donora Last Chance will square off with the Washington Intervals at 7 p. m. in senior class activity on Friday.

Should Donora win, the down-river club will claim the crown without further ado. However if Washington wins, then the same two teams will meet at 9:30 to decide the issue.

Donora emerged last night as the only undefeated senior team by handling Washington with amazing ease, 87-67.

Stay in Tourney

A little later in the evening, top-seeded Washington boys had a tough time tripping New Brighton, 75-74, to remain in the double-elimination show.

In another senior tussle, New Ozarks, 54-48, to qualify for the great try against Washington.

The junior division semi-finals went according to form. The Links hammered the West Virginia Mounties, 60-33, while the Tracys erased Brownsville, 42-38.

Donora had a surprisingly easy time with Washington, piling up scoring advantages in every period. The winners were particularly sharp at the foul line, making 29 of 35 attempts.

Al Frank, Carnegie Tech's great scorer, led the Donorans with 28 points. Sibby LoNegro, of California Teachers, and John Mesher, an established City League star, each contributed 20.

The Washington boys were paced by Pitt standout Bob Lazor who had 19 markers.

Great Rally

Washington stayed in the tourney with a sensational rally later in the evening to overtake New Brighton. After three periods the New Brighton boys led, 58-48.

In the final frame, Lazor got hot, making three quick fielders to bring his club within striking distance. John Riser, another Pitt product, wound up with 24 points for the game while Lazor had 18.

New Brighton was led by Dick Cairns who had 30. Paul Bilsing chipped in with 21.

New Brighton had earlier defeated the Monessen Ozarks without too much trouble. Cairns had 18 points for the winner while Joe Giamalva led the Ozarks with 13.

In junior play, the power-laden Links romped easily over West Virginia. Charles Smith, a Washington High star, led the way with 15 points. For the losers, Dick Morris had ten.

Monessen Tracys had to battle all the way, though, to nip the Brownsville Peppers.

Ron Gray, ex of Bellmar, led the winners with 11 points. Bob Chuey was high for Brownsville with 15.

Begin Judging To Determine Tourney Queen

Preliminary judging in the contest to select an Ozarks Basketball Tournament queen took place last night at the Monessen High gym.

The seven contestants will appear again tomorrow at the tournament championship games. At that time, a queen will be elected.

Competing for the honor are Beverly Robinson, of California; Dolly Sicchitano, Bentleyville; Carol Jydak, Monessen; Pat Minyon, Rostraver; Delia Diaz, Donora; Cherie Nogy, Belle Vernon and Linda Rogers, Charleroi.

The girls are judged on the basis of beauty, personality, charm, etc.

The queen will win a wrist watch as well as other prizes. All other candidates will also receive awards.

Comprising the judging committee are Mrs. John Hurley, Society Editor of the Daily Independent; Dr. Michael Duda, president of California Teachers; and Frank Buscanics, Charleroi sportscaster and insurance man. Acting as beauty consultant is Jimmy Bonafed of the LaRose Beauty Salon.

To Open Season at Ninth St.

Bulletin

Today's McKeesport-Monessen baseball game at Ninth Street Park has been postponed because of wet grounds. The game will be played tomorrow at 4 p. m.

Monessen High's newest baseball edition iwll begin the 1957 exhibition season today at Ninth Street Park, playing host to always tough McKeesport at 4 p. m.

Bellmar will also open this afternoon, laying out the mat for West Newton at the Fayette City diamond.

In other exhibitions, Monongahela will go to Clairton and Donora to Elizabeth.

The Greyhounds will debut under a new coach John Hayduk. He has succeeded John Harhai, who resigned from the school system some months back.

Hayduk still isn't quite sure of his starting lineup. He has only one regular — catcher Carl Crawley — back from last season.

Shifted to First

Crawley will probably be shifted to first base for the coming campaign in an effort to steady the MHS infield.

The pitching staff includes two junior hopefuls, with lots of grit if nothing else. They are Dan Barton and Myron Sepitko. Both will probably get their chance today.

The catcher this season looks like John Kaminsky.

Dick DiBiaso is slated for second base duty while Jim Barker will play shortstop. Pretty sure of outfield spots are Mike Kunsa and Jim Sepesky.

Outside of those boys, Hayduk isn't quite sure who will start.

McKeesport will come to town with a team that includes four holdovers from last year's great club. They are third baseman Ron Cucchi, shortstop Larry VanEman, second baseman Bill Styche and left-fielder Jerry Moore.

Good Pitching

The Tigers also have a flock of good-looking pitching prospects, including Dave Carlson, Bill Baugh and Kenny Kohl.

Thus it appears the Greyhounds will run into stiff competition in a hurry.

Bellmar, boasting a veteran infield and a sound pitching staff, will try its skill against a potentially good West Newton outfit.

The Canes, piloted again by Bap Manzini, do not expect to win the Section 17 title this season, but they don't expect to go down without a fight either.

Campanella Says He Never Felt In Better Shape

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP) — Roy Campanella looked at his right hand today and vowed he would make those who said he was through "eat their words."

"Why man, I've never felt better and my hand isn't giving me any trouble at all," the stocky Brooklyn catcher said. "If I don't get hurt, I'm sure I'll have a good year."

That right hand bothered him all of last season. He couldn't grip a bat properly and wound up hitting only .219. But he knocked in 73 runs and hit 20 homers.

He knew last June that the hand would have to be operated on to remove four bone chips from the thumb. But when the doctors told him the operation would sideline him for the season, he decided to keep on playing. He had the chips removed last November after the Dodgers returned from their Far East tour.

"There hasn't been any pain at all," Campanella said. "I haven't been hitting this spring, but I'm not worried. I can grip the bat properly now and as soon as I get my timing fixed, I'll be ready."

Campanella, who will be 36 in November, said he felt like "I can go on forever. Those people who think I'm reaching the end of the road are badly mistaken. And I'll prove it if I can avoid injuries."

Ex Rowing Coach At Harvard Dies

BELMONT, Mass., (UP)—Henry H. (Bert) Haines, rowing coach at Harvard for 35 years before his retirement in 1952, died Wednesday at the age of 77. Haines, a native of England, held the one-mile sculling record of the Isles at one time during his youth.

Hope to Have Trout Streams Stocked Soon

Every stream and lake in Pennsylvania approved by the Fish Commission for trout plantings will receive at least a portion of their total allotments for this year by the time the 1957 trout season opens on April 15, according to an announcement today by Dewey Sorenson, Superintendent of Hatcheries.

"This has become possible because an excellent job of maintenance on our delivery trucks, despite their age and high mileage, has enabled us to take complete advantage of the favorable weather since March 1, when the stocking program for the current season got underway," Sorenson said.

The announcement amends the earlier expressed possibility that some of the state's waters might not be stocked prior to opening day this year, due to the later than usual start of the distribution program. In 1956, the first truck rolled out of the hatcheries on February 3, with the scheduled preseason plantings completed just prior to the opening day.

Mid Season Program

After a two-week pause, the so-called mid-season program got underway and was completed by mid-June. This year, the program will continue without pause and is scheduled for completion by June 30.

The later start in the current year was to bring fish plantings "closer to the creel". By way of explanation, Sorenson said, "The Fish Commission feels that by lessening the time between planting and the open season, a greater number of these hatchery reared trout will survive the rigors of early season stream conditions and be available to the fishermen. Also by sparing our equipment the adverse highway conditions common to February, the stocking job will be done more economically and quicker."

To Honor Leffler

Two noteworthy events will take place in Ligonier, Pa., on Saturday, April 6. In the order of their occurrence:

The Game Commission's newly acquired Southwest Division headquarters building, located at 339 West Main Street, will be dedicated at 4 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Commission members and personnel, leading sportsmen and public officials will participate in the unveiling of a plaque which will commemorate the occasion. This property is th first field division office and grounds to be purchased by the Commission for wildlife administrative purposes.

Testimonial Event

That evening the sportsmen of southwestern Pennsylvania will hold a testimonial banquet honoring Ross L. Leffler, recently appointed Assistant Secretary of the Interior. The guest of honor, a U. S. Steel Corporation executive and resident of Pittsburgh, was a longtime member of the Game Commission. This memorable event will take place at the Fort Ligonier Hotel at 6:30.

John Laudadio, President of the Southwest Division of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, expressed the sentiments of this prominent conservationist's friends and associates when he said, "Mr. Leffler has spent a lifetime in conservation work, and the sportsmen are ever so grateful to him for his endeavors. This testimonial can only partially express our feelings and appreciation for his many years of unselfish devotion to the cause of the great outdoors."

Spahn Looks Good Again in Spring Games

By UNITED PRESS

Warren Spahn, who wept unashamedly when the Milwaukee Braves lost the National League pennant on the next-to-last day of the 1956 season, was smiling again today.

So, too, was his hulking teammate, Joe Adcock, who never has been known to weep in public but knows how to make opposing pitchers cry.

The reason for Spahn's joy was a six-hit, seven-inning stint against his favorite "cousins," the Cincinnati Redlegs, Wednesday, at Tampa, Fla. and while Spahn was softsoaping the Redlegs with his tricky southpaw slants, Adcock knocked in five runs with a pair of homers to propel the Braves to a 12-6 victory.

First Spring Victory

It was Spahn's first victory of the spring training grind and served as a warning to other N.L. clubs that the 35-year-old dean of the Milwaukee staff still has his "stuff."

While Spahn was flashing some of his old - time form, another oldtimer, Sal Maglie of the Dodgers, was subjected to another pounding. The 29-year-old "Barber" had hoped to pitch six innings against the Detroit Tigers, but was derricked after giving up seven hits and six runs in three innings.

The Tigers went on from there to clobber the Dodgers, 18-1.

Goes Nine Innings

World Series hero Johnny Kucks became the first New York Yankee pitcher to go nine innings, allowing only four hits against St. Louis, but the Cardinals emerged with a 1-0 victory on a double by Del Ennis and Hobie Landrith's triple in the second inning.

The New York Giants extended their spring record to 12 victories in 17 games—the best mark in the combined Grapefruit - Cactus League circuit—by blasting the Boston Red Sox, 5-2.

Esewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Kansas City Athletics, 4-3, in 10 innings; the Chicago White Sox scored eight runs in the third inning to down the Washington Senators, 9-4; and Bob Lemon allowed only two hits in five innings as the Cleveland Indians blanked the Chicago Cubs, 6-0.

Haney to Let Braves Make Their Own Rules

BRADENTON, Fla. (UP)—The Milwaukee Braves, who were accused of being the playboys of the National League last season, will be allowed to make their own training rules for this year—curfew time and everything else.

"But once the rules are made, they will have to stick to them," said Manager Fred Haney.

Haney announced his "home rule" policy Wednesday in an effort to show his faith in his players' behavior. He said the Braves will hold a player meeting at Jacksonville, Fla., next week to decide on the team's rules.

Jackie Robinson, the ex-Dodger, was the first to accuse the Braves of too much night-clubbing in the pennant stretch last year, but Haney told his men Wednesday, "Ignore all these things you have heard and will continue to hear."

"I told them we are not running a reform school, but a ball club," said Haney, "and that they shouldn't pay any attention to all these stories.

Haney, who has been driving his players hard in spring training in an extra effort to get them in shape for a fast start in the regular season, denied that his club rules this year will be extra tough.

"They won't be a bit different from those prevailing on the other 15 major-league clubs," he said.

New Field House For Slippery Rock

HARRISBURG (UP) — A new $1,500,000 field house and gymnasium would be built for Slippery Rock State Teachers College in Butler County under legislation in the General Assembly today.

A bill increasing the borrowing power of the General State Authority to $431,500,000 was introduced in the Senate Monday by Sen. Albert R. Pechan (R-Armstrong), with the additional amount allocated for construction of the new facilities.

Indians Need More Hitting to Win Flag

TUSCON, Ariz. (UP)—Manager Kerby Farrell of the Cleveland Indians still is looking in vain for the secret formula for whipping the New York Yankees.

"We need more hitting and more team speed to win," said Farrell, but so far he hasn't produced either commodity, though he has experimented all spring as patiently as a research chemist.

Thus, the Indians will head into another American League campaign with the most impressive lot of pitchers in base ball — Bob Lemon, Herb Score, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia and a solid second line — but with virtually the same supporting cast that finished nine games behind the Yankees in second place last year.

The loss of third baseman Al Rosen, one - time home run king and the league's most valuable player in 1953, complicated Farrell's first season as boss of the Indians and led to the endless experiments he has been forced to conduct.

Experiment In Infield

Until he clears his third base situation, neither his infield nor his outfield is likely to be settled. He has been trying second baseman Bobby Avila, outfielders Al Smith and Dave Pope and rookie Billy Harrell at third.

Farrell starts with three 20-game winners — Lemon (20-14), Score and Wynn each 20-9. Then he has Garcia (11-12) plus excellent relievers in Ray Narleski, Don Mossi and Art Houtteman.

The catching is safe though not powerful in the hands of the veteran Jim Hegan, Hal Naragon and young Earl Averill.

The big hope to wield a big stick again is first baseman Vic Wertz, who came back after a bout with polio last season and belted 32 homers plus 106 runs-batted-in.

At shortstop there's Chico Carrasquel or George Strickland, both light hitters on their current performance.

Avila, the league's batting king with .341 in 1954, is the regular at second unless Farrell finds he can be more useful in the trouble spot at third. In that event, Strickland can play second or the job might go to rookie Larry Raines, a .309 hitter up from Indianapolis.

Regalado Back Again

At third, there's Rudy Regalado back for another twirl hoping he can hit big league pitching, plus the others — Avila, Smith, Pope and Harrell, the latter a .279 hitter at Indianapolis last season.

In the outfield, Smith has been stationed in center and Farrell would like to keep him there.

Rocco Colavito, who hit 21 home runs in 101 games last year, is back in right field and Farrell is convinced the 25-year-old is a coming star.

Other outfielders include Jim Busby, who is back after nursing a shoulder ailment, the veteran Gene Woodling, Pope, rookies Joe Caffie and Roger Maris. Maris has looked exceptionally good, though it's too early to tell until he has a few more looks at major league pitching.

Elmira Back in Organized Ball

ELMIRA, N.Y. (UP)— Elmira will return to professional baseball as an entrant in the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League this season, local interests announced today.

Robert T. Jones, president of the Elmira Baseball Club, said the club has completed arrangements for a full working agreement with the Washington Senators and acceptance of the Hornell franchise in the league.

Hornell recently dropped out of the league, formerly known as the Pennsylvania - Ontario - New York (PONY) League.

Vaughn Upsets Joey Giardello

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Elated Willie Vaughn expressed desire today for a shot at fifth-ranked Tiger Jones while Joey Giardello, loser to Vaughn Wednesday night, said he wants a court decision on the battle.

Vaughn, the aggressor in the 10 rounds, was awarded a split decision over the sixth-ranked Philadelphia middleweight.

Referee Ray Sissom and Judge Frank Brown scored it for Vaughn while Judge L. E. Robbins gave it to Giardello. However, Sissom, who had marked his card 52-48 before turning it in, changed it to 47-45.

Manager Frankie Carter contended it should have been declared "no fight" and the boxers rematched, but O. G. Arnold, member of the Missouri Athletic Commission, ruled the decision would stand as the referee's revision did not change the outcome.

"We're going to take it to court and have it reversed," said Carter.

Vaughn, unranked before his upset, probably will move into the top 10 contenders. He displayed power, ring poise, boxing skill and aggressiveness.

George Freese Pleases Cubs With Hitting but not Fielding

By BILL MCFARLAND

MESA, Ariz. (UP) — George Freese, whose younger brother Gene is making a strong bid for a steady job with the Pittsburgh Pirates, alternately is the joy and the despair of the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs sorely need an all-round third baseman who can both hit and field. George qualifies 100 per cent—on 50 per cent of those requirements. He can hit.

"I don't know how to explain the fielding," said the 30-year-old infielder who makes his home at Reedsville, W.Va. "I'm going for the ball always, but, well, I'm just not getting some of them."

Manager Bob Scheffing's eyes light up when George blasts an extra base hit but there are times when he'd like to run out to third base and make Freese eat his glove after a bad play afield.

Scheffing is reluctant to discuss George's chances of making the club but some of the camp followers in the press corps have their doubts. However, Scheffing is sure of one thing:

Can Hit

"Freese already has shown me he can hit."

Bob had Freese at Los Angeles last season where he hit a highly respectable .291, including 22 homers and 113-runs-batted-in. It was a long way from a satisfactory over-all performance, though, for his fielding average of .950 left considerable to be desired.

Scheffing already has another good-hit, weak-field third baseman in Ray Jablonski and if either of them would show a definite improvement around the hot corner the job would be his.

In desperation, Scheffing has moved Gene Baker off second base into emergency duty at third and may have to keep him there. Both Jablonski and Freese still are in the picture, however.

Need Help

"I want to give everyone a chance," said Scheffing. "We need some one badly since we traded Randy Jackson to Brooklyn.

Jablonski, who starred at bat for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1953 and 1954 but lost his job at Cincinnati when he couldn't hit the next two years, had first crack at the Cubs' third base job this spring.

"Jabbo" failed to knock down any fences and showed little fielding advancement so Freese took over for his first real chance since the Pirates gave him a twirl in 1955.

George was an immediate success at the plate but his defensive lapses soon brought him a demotion to the "B" team.

Pirates Stage Intra-Squad Tilt

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates return to Grapefruit League action today against the Kansas City Athletics.

The Pirates didn't while away their off-day Wednesday, but held an intra-squad game between Dick Groat's "Double Dribblers" and Dick Cole's "Windjammers." The winner's prize, a box of cigars, went to Groat's team which won, 5-4.

Manager Bobby Bragan was pleased over the performance of pitcher Vernon Law. Law pitched seven innings for the Double Dribblers and Bragan said it was the best the righthander looked since the start of the training season. He called Law's pitching "heartening."

Giants Win in Homer Contest

PHOENIX, Ariz., (UP) — The New York Giants won a pre-game home-run hitting contest with the Boston Red Sox Wednesday, 7-4, with 39-year-old Hank Sauer propelling four of six belts out of the park. Ted Williams and Willie Mays managed to hit only one homer each in six tries.

Former Boxing Champ Speaks At Lions Club

President Maynard Jesick was in charge of the Tuesday evening dinner meeting of the Belle Vernon Lions Club held in the First Christian Church social rooms.

Guest speaker was Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight boxing champion of the world, who told of his experience when he took up boxing as a career.

His talk included many humerous anecdotes of his travels and boxing and was well received by the club members. Program Chairman Raymond McClintock introduced the speaker.

George Jones led in the flag salute and David Scholl gave the invocation. Guests present included Jim Wiant of the Rostraver Lions Club; Paul Jesick, Fayette City Lions; Jim Jesick, Washington Township Lions and Clair Brown, sports editor of the Monongahela Republican, who arranged for Zivic's appearance.

J. O. Clawson was in charge of the induction of new members and those joining the organization were Vincent Vizza, Craig Krepps, Pete Zuro, Kenneth Bell, John Olesevsky and Paul Soroka.

Jesick, Dalvert Booth, Dana Raboci and William Vizza received awards for getting the most new members.

Mrs. Maude Springer, of State street, was a recent Pittsburgh visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carr and family of Clairton, visited on Monday night with local friends.

For Investigation Of Construction At State Colleges

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Senate Education Committee today approved a Republican proposal for a legislative study of the General State Authority's construction program at state teachers' colleges.

The resolution contended that out-of-state consultants hired by the Public Instruction Department are making recommendations for repairs and rehabilitation at the colleges "which are impractical and impossible of accomplishment." Originators of the resolution said the recommendations have resulted in "unnecessary delay in making critically needed repairs and expansions."

Friendship Circle Officers Elected Here on Tuesday

Election of officers highlighted the March meeting of the World Friendship Circle of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church when it met in the parish house Tuesday evening.

The leader was Jean Rak, who used the topic: "The Heart Speaks." Her program for the meeting was inspirational, showing the work of the Holy Spirit in people of many races and nationalities, as evidenced in their prayers.

The following had a part in the program: Mrs. Louise Ulander, Frances Lucovitz, Betty Rak, Mrs. Schneidmiller, Mrs. Doroth Zumbro, Gladys Urinsco, Mrs. Peggie Nesbit, Mrs. Dorothy Specht, Esther Lux, Mrs. Marvis Lenk, Mrs. Vera Gephart, Mrs. Evelyn Antoszyk, and Geraldine Monath. The regular monthly quiz concluded this part of the session.

Mrs. Dorothy Specht, president, opened the business meeting with a prayer. The group voted to conduct an extra project during April and May, to raise money for the "Refugee Baby Layette Fund."

The election of officers had the following results: Mrs. Dorothy Zumbro, president; Mrs. Sophia Rieser, vice president; Esther Lux, secretary and Mrs. Barbara Schneidmiller, treasurer. Seventeen members attended the meeting.

Ingrid Bergman, Yul Brynner Win Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ingrid Bergman, a self-made exile from the United States because of flaming headlines seven years ago, won the world's highest acting honor, the Oscar, Wednesday night as the best actress of 1956.

Yul Brynner, the bedroom-eyed matinee idol as bald as the Oscar he clasped, smilingly accepted the 29th annual Academy Award as best actor for playing the arrogant, child-like ruler of Siam in "The King and I."

Veteran Anthony Quinn, who portrayed artist Paul Gaugin in "Lust for Life," was cited as best supporting actor in a surprise upset. Dorothy Malone, the man-hungry rich girl of "Written on the Wind", received a gold statuette as supporting actress, and touchingly dedicated it to her 16-year-old brother, struck dead by lightning two years ago.

Fans Cheer Selections

Fast-talking Broadway showman Mike Todd, the new husband of beautiful Elizabeth Taylor, won the best picture Oscar for his first try at movies, "Around the World in 80 Days."

But it was the award to the stately Miss Bergman for her role in "Anastasia" that captured the spirits of the 3,500 film stars and cheering fans who jammed the Pantages Theater on Hollywood Blvd. for the town's annual backpatting event.

Miss Bergman, now in Paris, won another Oscar 13 years ago for "Gaslight." Seven years ago she left this country and her husband to bear Italian Director Roberto Rossellini a child. After their controversial marriage, she announced her retirement from the screen. Later she appeared in foreign movies. Twentieth Century-Fox Studio finally talked her into starring in "Anastasia", filmed in Europe, last year.

Quinn's Oscar brought cheers because it was the only upset. Robert Stack had been touted to win, but the Mexican-American Quinn who won in 1952 for "Viva Zapata", copped the trophy.

Todd celebrated his statue by kissing Miss Taylor backstage and declaring, "Now I'm the winner of the two best prizes in Hollywood."

His movie tied "The King and I" with five Oscars apiece.

George Stevens won the best direction Oscar for "Giant" while the trophy for the best song went to Ray Evans and Jay Livingston's "Whatever Will Be, Will Be", from "The Man Who Knew Too Much."

The Motion Picture Academy handed out 29 regular awards, three honorary and six Oscars for technical achievements.

Circus Train Ready to Leave Winter Quarters

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)— The circus train, a mere skeleton of its former size, was ready to leave winter quarters of the "Greatest Show on Earth" today without the frills and fanfare that once marked its annual departure on the spring and summer tour.

A few special railroad cars for animals and three coaches for a handful of performers made up the train which in past years included two full sections of more than 50 cars each. Other performers and circus officials already had left for New York by train, plane, car and bus.

Left behind in the 200-acre winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus were about 100 silvery and red railroad cars, which were beginning to show the effects of heavy rains and the Florida sun.

The decline of the circus train is only one of many changes in the 1957 version of the "Greatest Show on Earth."

The big top is gone, lost in the middle of last season when owner John Ringling North pulled the circus off the road and said it would never again play under canvas. Large indoor arenas and a few baseball parks will form the stages for this year's show.

Christian Group Preparing for Rally on May 5

The Religious Christian Education Council met Friday at Fells Methodist Church with the Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway in charge. Clarence Bush opened the meeting with prayer.

Reports were read by Madge Hamilton, acting secretary, and Bush, who gave the financial report of the year.

During the business session, plans for Good Friday were discussed with the Reverends W. S. Van Ryn and John Shell in charge of arrangements. Hugh Gallo and his committee are to plan for relief time classes for the Junior High School and make a report at the April 26 meeting.

Madge Hamilton was appointed chairman of youth work and the young people will work with her in planning programs. The youths will use the centrally-located Rehoboth Church for its May 5 rally. Singspiration youth director Nicholas Joseph requests all members to be present for a rehearsal on April 4 in connection with the rally.

There will be an election of officers at the next meeting. The Rev. F. C. Burchell closed the meeting with prayer.

Present were Will Maurer, of Webster Presbyterian Church; Mr. Shell, John Jugan and Madge Hamilton, of Webster Methodist; Evelyn Thorpe, of Riverside Tabernacle; Violet Winstone, Bill Smith and Mr. Jackaway, of Rehoboth Presbyterian; Hugo Gallo, of Olive Branch Baptist; Lohman Mason, John Evans and Mr. Burchell, of Nazarene; Mr. Van Ryn, of Fells Methodist, and Bush, of Pricedale Union.

At Least 16 Are Killed in Mexico Blast

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Local and federal police tried to pin responsibility today for the storing of 20 tons of high explosives that blew up in a densely populated area ednesday — spreading death, destruction and injury for a quarter of a mile.

Rescue workers ended their search for bodies early this morning and said the final death toll probably would remain at 16. At least 235 persons were injured, many of them seriously.

Earlier, Dr. Roberto Gomez of the Mexican Red Cross said that because bodies were blown into small pieces the death count may rise as high as 50.

There were two explosions. They demolished the warehouse in which the explosives were stored, left a block-wide crater and leveled every building and one-story adobe shack in the congested area for 200 yards.

More Cuts Expected In Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — House economizers promised to chop millions of dollars more out of the administration's record budget today, despite a vigorous protest by President Eisenhower against piecemeal cuts.

At the same time, the Senate's economy drive collided with a $1.5 billion rivers and harbors bill authorizing many pet projects of senators.

Mr. Eisenhower suggested at a news conference Wednesday that if Congress really wants to scale down government spending it might start with the "great number" of public works authorized for "political purposes."

The President stoutly defended his record peacetime $71.8 billion. He defied Congress to make substantial cuts without crippling "essential" programs.

House economizers planned to pick up this afternoon where they left off Wednesday — whittling down a money bill for running the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

The House quit work on the $2.8 billion appropriations bill Wednesday with the budget-cutters firmly in control.

They knocked $14.8 million out of the Labor Department's budget, which already had been pared $20. million in committee. The President had requested a total of $384 million for the department.

Members promised more multi-million dollar cuts when they finish up on the labor budget and then swing their axe at the $2.4 billion requested for health, welfare and education.

In the Senate, Sens. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) and Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) vowed to oppose the public works bill. However, members previously have proved reluctant to draw the economy line when it comes to such measures.

PRR Workers to Be Furloughed

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Some 1,600 maintenance employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad, including 600 at its Altoona shops, will be furloughed beginning Monday, it was announced Wednesday.

The other 1,000 furloughs would be "proportionate in the system," the railroad said, but did not disclose where they would be.

Legislature Sets New Goal of May 30 for Final Adjournment

HARRISBURG (UP) — Republican legislative leaders today set a new goal of final adjournment of the General Assembly by May 30.

Both GOP-dominated chambers plan a four-day work week in each of the next two weeks to step up legislative activity to meet the target date.

Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) said he issued instructions to committee chairmen to "clear their desks" of all bills in committee.

"We want to be sure that we do not have a huge raft of bills hanging over committees when the time for final adjournment rolls around," Mahany said.

In the House, Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) said the leadership planned the same sort of stepped-up activity in a drive for a May 30 final adjournment. Only last week Johnson said the General Assembly should be able to wrap up its business by early June.

Johnson said appropriation bills have been drafted and were ready for insertion of figures upon completion of hearings by the joint Senate and House appropriations committees on Gov. George M. Leader's budget. The hearings are expected to be completed by mid-April.

Mahany said the Senate would not meet the week before Easter and would reconvene on Tuesday the weeks of April 22 and May 6. The April 22 meeting will give the lawmakers a lengthy Easter vacation. A shortage of hotel rooms May 6 because of a convention here was given as the reason for not meeting on Monday of that week.

During today's short Senate session it was announced a public hearing will be held April 9 on a series of three bills proposing the creation of a special commission and police force to handle the Commonwealth's illegal narcotics problem.

The measure would transfer narcotics control from the state Health Department to a specially-created Narcotics Commission armed with a police force with authority to arrest on sight persons engaged in unlawful sale, possession or distribution of drugs.

Cold Weather Is Due Here Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

Cloudy weather with mild temperatures prevailed across Pennsylvania today but the mercury was expected to drop below freezing in some sectors tonight.

A high pressure system currently in the west will move in to the state during tonight and tomorrow, break up the cloudiness and bring slightly higher temperatures.

South Dakota Curbs The Birth of Carp

PIERRE, S. D. (UP) — Experiments aimed at controlling the birthrate of a "rough" fish are proving successful.

South Dakota's Game, Fish and Park Department and the U. S. Army Engineers are cooperating in the experiment to control carp spawning in the Ft. Randall reservoir in South Dakota.

The engineers reduce the water level of the reservoir during the spring periods when the carp spawn. The draw-down leaves the carp eggs high and dry killing them.

The game department said that tests showed the experiment was successful last spring.

The body temperature of the average person is not affected by climate. The body temperature of the person living in the tropics is almost the same as that of a person living in the far north.

No One Seems Alarmed Over Shortage of Salk Vaccine

(The first of three dispatches on the Salk Vaccine situation.)

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

NEW YORK (UP) — A shortage of Salk vaccine has developed in the United States on the eve of a new polio season.

Are frightened parents tearing hair to get their Johnny first into line? Are congressmen shouting for heads to roll?

There is barely a ripple of alarm.

Parents whose children have received Dr. Jonas Salk's cherry-colored creation feel secure. Millions of others who have not had shots for themselves or their children walk around blissfully—and mistakenly — thinking that polio no longer is a menace. Officials, embarrassed that the shortage cropped up during their nationwide vaccination drive, give assurances that the shortage is only temporary.

Apathy and confusion still blur the Salk picture two years after the April 12, 1955 announcement: "The vaccine is safe and effective."

It has proved 90 per cent effective for persons taking the full course of three shots. Doctors say it "undoubtedly" contributed to the decline in polio last year. In proper dosage it appears to offer protection for years. Among the 11 million persons who have had three shots, only one has died of polio.

But Salk vaccine has not wiped out the disease and, doctors say it probably never will. As Salk himself has warned, "Your neighbor's shot does not protect you."

Such old-hand polio fighters as Basil O'Connor, president of the national Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, say the current shortage is actually cause of "rejoic-Service, admitting the situation is momentarily "serious," adds, "We are pleased that available supplies are being used so rapidly."

What they mean is not so strange as it sounds. The shortage is proof to officials that — at long last — the vaccine is moving out of the lab, where it is useless, and into the arms of children, teenagers and adults.

With five - sixths of the men and women between the ages of 20 and 40, and three-fourths of high school students still to receive even one shot — not to mention 23 million children and pregnant women — there is a long way to go.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney told congressional investigators the shortage was "difficult if not impossible to forecast." Suddenly, he said, the big publicity campaign paid off.

The public had been told, "Step up and get your shot" — only to find that there wasn't, at this moment, enough vaccine in some places to go around. The announcement had gone out, "Salk vaccine is safe, effective and available."

Last summer and fall the vaccine, which must be used within six months after manufacture, piled up on dusty shelves unwanted. In January and February, the entire backlog of 26 million shots, plus 10.5 million shots produced this year, was gobbled up.

Next to Greenland, New Guinea, with an area of some 312,329 miles, is the largest island in the world.

NOT 'GOING WEST' — Actress Barbara Nichols, who has become known in Hollywood as the girl most likely to succeed Mae West, demonstrates that she can go through "Come up and see me some time" routine but has no intention of following in Mae's footsteps.

Population Is Growing Fast; Already Passes Expected 1990 'Peak'

(First of a Series)

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — The population of the United States is growing much faster than experts expected. It already has passed the "peak" it was supposed to reach in 1990.

The present rate of population increase—1.7 per cent a year—is more than double that of the 1930's. If it keeps up, America will have more than 228 million persons to feed, clothe, house, educate, employ and transport by 1975.

These facts now are receiving earnest attention at the highest levels of government and business. They have, in the words of Dr. Joseph S. Davis of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, "profound significance" for the future of the nation and for each individual who will be hunting a job, going to college, buying a home or building a factory in the next 20 years.

Some Results Obvious

Some results of the baby boom which has been underway since World War II already are obvious—in overcrowded elementary schools and mushrooming suburban housing developments. But other important implications of the rapid population growth "are not yet widely appreciated," Davis said in an interview.

Until a few years ago, Davis said, virtually all authorities thought that the United States had reached the end of its long period of population expansion, and that the latter half of this century would bring a stationary or declining population.

The wartime jump in birth rates was regarded as purely temporary. As late as 1946, the Census Bureau forecast that the U.S. population would be 153 million in 1960 and would reach an ultimate peak of 164.5 million about 1990.

Baby Boom Continues

But the baby boom continued—and still shows no sign of a letdown. The population shot past the 164.5 million mark in 1955, 35 years ahead of schedule. It now is just over 170 million. By 1960, it is expected to reach 180 million. Barring a catastrophe, such as atomic war, it will pass 200 million before 1970, and will continue to climb with no peak in sight.

Without making any attempt to guess future birth rates, Davis pointed out some of the ways in which U.S. life will be affected simply by the growing up of babies already born:

—There will be a sharp increase in consumer demand starting in a few years, as postwar children reach their teens. Teenagers eat more, they spend more for clothes and entertainment. They buy used cars, cigarets, record-players and sports equipment. This increased demand will be a stimulus to economic expansion.

—The number of boys and girls reaching their 18th birthday—the traditional age for going to college or starting to work—will climb rapidly in the 1960's. Competition for jobs, especially the kind of jobs that offer a good beginning for a career, is likely to be intense. Getting into college may be even harder than finding a job. Population projections indicate that U.S. colleges will have to double their capacity in the next 15 years if they are to handle the tidal wave of applicants approaching their doors.

More Household Formations

—The median age for marriage now is slightly over 20. As successive waves of postwar children arrive at this threshhold age, there will be a big jump in the annual rate of "household formations." This is an economist's term for newly-married couples who enter the market for homes, furniture and appliances. More household formation means a rise in demand for housing and durable goods.

Some economists, such as Prof. Joseph J. Spengler of Duke University, believe that rapid population growth poses a serious long-range threat to U.S. prosperity. They foresee growing shortage of natural resources, rising costs of production as the pressure of demand forces industry to tap submarginal sources of raw materials, and a general downward slide in living standards.

Davis does not share this pessimistic outlook. He believes that America's long-range increase in productivity, which has been averaging 3.5 per cent a year, or about double the rate of population growth, can continue to raise living standards. He is also confident that scientific and technological advances will open up new sources of raw materials, as in the past.

"The economic problems of enlarging material resources to meet strong demands are the sort that Americans delight to solve," he said.

Feeding the increased population, Davis said, will be "the least of our worries." U.S. agriculture, which keeps piling up surpluses despite stringent government controls on planting, is capable of enormous expansion of output. Some "adjustments in diet"—such as eating more fish and less beef — may be necessary. But there is no real danger of a food shortage in this country in the foreseeable future.

Elsewhere in the world, it's a different story.

Next: Population "explosion" threatens disaster for some underdeveloped nations.

Use Foods In Their Season

There is one rule that everyone who aspires to achieve a reputation as a good cook should follow. This may be summed up in one sentence. Take advantage of local foods in their season.

This principle is not always followed.

This was illustrated recently when Libby Smith, whose new book "Everyday Gourmet" has just been published, brought from her home in Marblehead the fish she considers the best for one of her specialties, a chowder. All the guests enjoyed this.

As most away from the source cannot purchase whole fish for use in a chowder, and do not have heads and trimmings to cook with herbs to furnish a stock. We will be content with a very good but less elaborate recipe found satisfactory and almost as good as the one originated in Marblehead.

The Dessert was a Washington pie with a butter spongecake foundation. The layers were spread with wild strawberry jam. For this classic dessert a custard filling is often put between the layers of cake. The same recipe known either as Washington or Boston cream pie.

WASHINGTON PIE
(Libby Smith)

Beat 2 eggs well. Add 1 cup sugar. Beat well. Add 1 cup flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, sifted together. Beat well. Scald ½ cup milk with 1 tablespoon butter. Add the scalded milk and butter to the flour and egg mixture. Beat well. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour the batter into 2 buttered and floured pans. Bake in 375 degree F. oven for 20 minutes, or until straw comes clean. Remove cake from pans immediately. Fill the layers with raspberry or strawberry jam and top with finely sifted confectioners' sugar, or fill the layers and top with chocolate filling.

Tasty Recipes

NEW ENGLAND

¼ pound salt pork, diced
2 medium-sized onions, diced
3 cups diced potatoes
2 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound solid fish, cut into pieces
1 quart milk
½ cup cream

Cook salt pork in large saucepan until crisp on all sides. Add onions and cook 3 minutes. Add potatoes, salt and pepper and water. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Add fish and milk, and cook until potatoes are tender, about 10 minutes.

Bill to Give Highway Funds

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to assure local municipalities $30-million annually for road building and maintenance has been introduced in the General Assembly.

A House bill specifies the municipalities would draw out of the Motor License Fund if their share of the state gasoline tax did not equal $30-million. Under the present law local governments receive 20 per cent of the tax levied on each gallon of gasoline. Counties receive one-half cent.

The bill was sponsored by Reps. Albert E. Strausser (R-Columbia) and Blaine C. Hocker (R-Dauphin.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

HANDY TRICK WITH SWEETS! Skewer a potato on each prong of a hot dog grill and bake them upright. Comes serving time, you won't burn your knuckles reaching all over the oven to round up potatoes.

Sweet Potato Pudding Is Old Favorite Specialty

Some call them sweet potatoes and some call them yams. The former may be light yellow with a rather dry meat. Or you may find them deep yellow and moist, like those the Southerners call yams.

Both types are good for baking and there may be a preference for one over the other. While the weather is crisp and cool, these potatoes will be of fine quality and we like to make use of them before this year's crop dwindles.

Edith Barber

While they will bake perfectly well on the rack of the oven and slightly quicker if a skewer is placed in each, an ingenious man found an unusual way for baking and serving them. He unscrewed the handle of an outdoor hot dog grill, placed a potato on each prong and baked them standing up. He probably served them at a buffet meal.

He considers himself an expert as a cook and I can vouch he does chicken as well as he does sweet potatoes. He has, however, a whole group of sweet potato specialties and shares the recipes graciously. One of these he calls Jersey sweetie pie and pudding. It is actually more like a pudding than my idea of a pie.

He also recommends sweet potatoes in raw stick form as a relish. When you take one, you will probably be surprised, believing you are taking a carrot stick that is about the same color. Mr. Fred Smith is responsible for the tips that are passed on to you today.

ESCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES AND APPLES

2 large, unpared sweets
2 large red cooking apples
6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup light corn syrup.

Boil potatoes in jackets till tender. Cool; peel; cut iinto ½-inch crosswise slices. Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Core washed apples and cut into ½-inch crosswise slices. Cut slices in half. Saute apples in 2 tablespoons butter in skillet over low heat until nearly soft. Arrange alternate slices of sweets and apples in rows in greased baking dish. Combine remaining butter, salt, cinnamon, brown sugar and corn syrup. Pour half of mixture over sweets and apples. Bake, uncovered at 375 degrees F. about ½ hour. Add rest of sugar-surup mixture and continue to bake till lightly browned, about 10 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

JERSEY SWEETIE PIE PUDDING

2 cups grated sweets (about 3 mediums)
2 eggs
1 cup sugar (white or brown)
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts

Peel sweets (either yellow or orange type) and grate with medium grater. Measure 2 cupfuls and put into quart baking dish, well greased. In bowl, beat eggs till light, then beat in sugar gradually. Stir in milk, melted butter, spices and salt. Add to grated sweets in baking dish and stir well. Finally, add nuts and mix thoroughly. Bake in oven preheated to 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Stir well. Resume baking for 30 minutes and serve. Yield: 8 servings. Can be served hot with milk or cream, or can be served chilled with whipped cream. Can be held in refrigerator and reheated in double boiler for use later.

TART SHELLS

Combine 1 10-ounce package pastry mix, ¼ cup cold water and 1 slightly beaten egg yolk; mix lightly and press into a ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface to ⅛-inch thickness; cut into 4-inch squares. Shape squares over backs of baking cups or muffin pans; pinch corners together. Prick shells with fork. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 5 minutes.

Fruit Tarts Satisfying Yet Not Too Rich

Most people enjoy a bit of sweet at the end of a meal. Even those concerned about keeping that slender figure and not overeating feel better satisfied and less tempted to eat between meals if they have indulged lightly in dessert.

Although most people are fond of fruit itself, they do like a slight change from time to time. At this season either forzen or canned fruits may be put to good use for many purposes. Small pastry shells filled with fruit topped with a small amount of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry are tempting in appearance and very good to eat.

By the way it should be mentioned that cream doubles its bulk when whipped. For some reason whipped cream is considered a particularly fattening food. This is an unjust accusation if compared with plain heavy cream.

Not all maraschino cherries are canned unstemmed. If one happens to have the others on hand, they may of course be used, but be sure to place them with the hollow, where the stem has been, on top; otherwise the red cherry juice will drip into the whipped cream and spoil its snowy appearance.

CHERRY PEACH TARTS

1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup maraschino cherry juice
½ cup water
½ cup maraschino cherries, drained and quartered (about 20 cherries)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 12-ounce packages frozen peaches, thawed
Tart shells
Whipped cream

Combine cornstarch, cherry juice and water; blend. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened; cool. Add cherries, lemon juice and peaches; mix well and chill. Turn into shells and top with cream. Garnish with additional cherries.

Little Water Is Needed For Stewing Chicken

People have been rather neglecting old-fashioned chicken fricassee in recent years since broilers have been so plentiful in the market regardless of season. Of course many of the small chickens are allowed to mature in order to supply eggs for tables and to hatch the tiny chicks that is so short a time grow up to broiler size.

At this time of year when they are no longer good layers, the hens are sent to market and will meet their end in a fricassee or stew. In an older day this was featured at many a Sunday dinner.

When it was served with a golden sauce — with hot biscuits — it was much enjoyed.

When the chicken was stewed in a small amount of water and the stock was saved for the sauce, the dish was quite different. Sometimes after the pieces were drained and fried, they were lightly browned in butter, which was used as a foundation for brown gravy. If the chicken was fat, the latter replaced all or part of the butter for browning the chicken.

On Sunday or any other day one can enjoy a golden or brown fricassee with hot, crisp biscuits, split just before serving.

STEWED CHICKEN

1 5-pound fowl
1 quart boiling water (about)
1 stalk celery
1 sliced onion
2 sprigs parsley
¼ cup chopped carrot
1 bay leaf
4 cloves
4 peppercorns
1 tablespoon salt

Have chicken cut in pieces for serving or leave whole for use in salads or creamed dishes. Clean. Place in kettle, add water to half cover, then remaining ingredients and bring to boiling. Cover tightly and let simmer over heat about 1 hours until tender.

GOLDEN CHICKEN FRICASSEE

1 stewed chicken
3 tablespoons butter or chicken fat
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken stock
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
½ cup cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Have chicken cut in pieces and cook. Keep chicken warm while making sauce. Melt fat, stir in flour and, when well blended, add chicken stock slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixtur thickens and boils. Add cream and lemon juice to slightly beaten egg yolk and stir into sauce. Add Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper if necessary. For brown fricassee the portions may be browned in chicken fat or butter before stewing.

Medical Science May Be Close To Answer in Acne Problem

NEW YORK (UP)— Medical science may be close to a complete understanding of acne, the disfiguring, dispiriting affliction of adolescents.

Fitting together the newest discoveries and the newest scientific thought, Dr. Herbert Lawrence, a well-known authority, suggested that acne resulted from two stresses coming together.

These stresses are (1) the awakening glandular system which is the prime physical factor in converting children functionally into adults and (2) the psychological stresses which bear down upon adolescents from without and are the inevitable and unavoidable accompaniments of the business of maturing physically and emotionally.

Dr. Lawrence gave his views at a regional meeting of school health workers. He emphasized that he was not giving the "whole answer" to acne, which has puzzled medical science both as to causes and cures, but that his partial answers both suggested the whole and were backed by scientific experimentation and observation.

In brief, the doubly distressing causes of acne seem to work this way, according to Dr. Lawrence. With the full awakening of the sexual components of the endocrine glandular system, there is a great increase in the activity of the oil glands of the skin. At the same time, the psychological stresses are rushing the system from the outside.

He revealed that psychological tests of adolescents have shown that over-production of the oil glands can be brought about by merely applying psychological stress to them by word of mouth. When these verbal stresses are removed, the production subsides, and so, Dr. Lawrence reasoned, it would seem that "during periods of quiescence the oil is stagnant in the follicle, hardens, and forms a plug."

Holds Back Secretion

Then—another period of stress comes along, the plug prevents the secretion from reaching the surface of the skin and produces an irritating impaction or foreign body in the follicle or its opening. This in turn sets up the whole inflammatory process "which is characteristic of acne."

Dr. Lawrence is a San Franciso dermatologist. In response to questions, he stated emphatically that acne was not an allergy. This had point, since often chocolate and other sweets are blamed. He did not forbid sweets to his acne patients, he said, but he did insist upon a well-balanced diet for reasons of general health.

The treatment of acne was "trying to counteract the effects of the oil-gland activity", which, he granted was "not so easy to do." He recommended "good skin hygiene," that is, frequent washings with plain soap and water—for which he had only the kindest words.

"The cosmetic industry has made a tremendous play at trying to convince the public that the trouble with their skin, particularly the female skin, is that it is too dry and therefore it follows they should annoint themsleves in a sacramental fashion every night otherwise they will be dried up prunes in a very short time," and that isn't so, he said. The acne victims pick up that idea and do themselves harm with more oil for already oily skin, he added.

HE'S 'LADY OF THE HOUSE' — Steel worker Joseph Zions accepts congratulations from his children after he won the "Mr. Homemaker of the Year" award in a Chicago exposition. Zions, 40, said "I'd rather be home cooking or cleaning house." He has been mother and father to his six children since his wife's death three years ago. Mr. Homemaker is being kissed by daughters, Adrienne, 15, (left) and Leona, 17, while Gail, 3, Sharon, 7, Lowell, 16 and Wayne, 12, look on.

Watch Co. Sales Are Up

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Arthur B. Sinkler, president of the Hamilton Watch Co. said Tuesday that 1957 sales are expected to equal those of last year, checking a three year decline.

Sinkler told a meeting of Philadelphia security analysts that despite the three-year drop, which he said resulted from the gradual termination of Army and Navy fuse contracts, profits have remained relatively constant.

In the annual report mailed to stockholders Tuesday the watch company reported earnings in the fiscal year ending January 31 totaling $1,544,049, or $3.98 a share against $1,565,569 or $4.32 a share on fewer outstanding shares in 1955.

Sales totaled $25,411,325 as compared with $28,065,682 in fiscal 1955.

Sinkler said the company hopes to offset the decline in fuse contracts for artillery by developing and manufacturing fuses and timing devises for guided missiles on rockets.

He noted that during 1956 sales of domestically manufactured watches accounted for only 50 per cent of the company's dollar volume.

He said that "although domestic watch sales have been in the doldrums in recent years, we expect some improvements during 1957."

The firm's recent entry into the auto clock business and the development of an electric wrist watch should bolster sales, he added.

A Penny Saved

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (UP)— A difference of one cent cost two insurance companies an important contract Wednesday. The two firms submitted identical bids of $6,286.43 — one cent less than the successful bid.

Legislator 'not Worried' Over Contested Seat

HARRISBURG (UP)—Veteran Democratic Rep. Harris G. Breth said today he was "not worried" about his contested seat in the General Assembly.

Breth, a five-term House member from Clearfield County, said he "understood" his defeated Republican opponent would appeal their fall election contest to the state Supreme Court.

"But the court docket is so crowded that they would not be able to consider the appeal before May or June and the Assembly will probably be near final adjournment by then," Breth said.

Clearfield County Court ruled Breth the winner by eight votes over William C. Chase in the county's first legislative district seat.

House Speaker W. Stuart Helm (R-Armstrong) said the plans to contest Breth's seating were still pending but indicated no chamber

DAVE KRASIK

Dear Friends:

When I started in business in 1907, Monessen was a cobble-street town, just beginning to flex its future great muscles as one of the world's greatest steel producers. In the ensuing years, following the "Golden Rule" policy I set down at my store's inception, I have made thousands of friends and customers.

My sons, Willard and James, now the active heads of the business, have carried on this Rule to the letter and have added many more thousands of you to our satisfied customer list.

This 50th Anniversary Sale, with its hundreds and hundreds of incomparable bargains, is our way of saying "Thank You."

P. S. Come in! You'll be glad you did

Dave Krasik.

A Speers man had his drivers license revoked by the Bureau of Highway Safety during the week ending March 8. The charge was intoxication.

He is Donald Raymond Hallam, of Pennsylvania avenue, Speers.

Eight others had their licenses suspended while 10 were restored. Suspensions were given to the following:

Speeding, no defense submitted: Vincent Joseph Gibson, of Grindstone; Jeanne B. Markley, of National Pike extension, Brownsville and Robert Allen Zynosky, of Main street, New Eagle.

Failure to post security: Donald Greene, of R. D. 1, Charleroi and Earl Thomas, of 121 Highland Terrace, Donora.

Improper passing: Kostik Kononuk, of Cokeburg.

Driving too fast for conditions: John P. Curry, Jr., of 822 Lawrence street, Monongahela and Fete Leoni, of R. D. 1, Bentleyville.

Restorations were given the following:

David P. Blair, of 114 Wood street, Belle Vernon; Elizabeth M. Corey, of Daisytown; Charles Drazenovich, of West Brownsville; Quinto Impiccini, of Vestaburg; John Kulak, Jr., of 64 Fifth street, California; Donald W. Patterson, of West Brownsville, R. D. 1; John Sokolosky, of R.D. 1, Bentleyville; James Koschak, of R. D. 1, West Newton; Ralph J. Magill, of 806 Main street, West Newton and Gus Ostetrico, of 834 Donner avenue, Monessen.

College Faculty Members Charged By Elkhart Coeds

ELKHART, Ind. (UP)—A group of Elkhart University students today came to the defense of three faculty members charged with staging drinking parties for coeds who wanted to "benefit their scholastic efforts."

Police said seven teen-aged coeds signed statements saying they went on drinking parties with the teachers. They said one of the teachers would comfort them with "fatherly kisses" when they got sick from drinking.

The teachers were free on $300 bond. Authorities said they would be arraigned Monday on charges of furnishing liquor to minors They face maximum penalties of $500 fines and six months in jail if convicted.

The teachers were identified as Hugh A. Woosley, 40, head of medical courses at the university; and Frank Schultz, 28, and Robert Zimmerman, 32, laboratory instructors.

In their statements, the girls told of emptying more than 100 cans of beer at one of the drinking parties. Police said one of the girls also charged the instructors with supplying mixed drinks at the party.

On "occasions" when some of the girls got sick from too much liquor, Woosley tried to soothe them with "fatherly kisses," the statements said.

$300 Plane Is Finally Sold For $50,000

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)— The government has dropped its $10,000 damage suit against a Boy Scout Council and other successive owners of a "$300" war surplus bomber that took off with a $50,000 price tag.

The Piedmont Council of Boy Scouts at Gastonia, N C., contended the government did not impose any restrictions on resale of the World War II B24 Liberator sold to the Scouts in 194[illegible] for $300.

The Scouts, after using the plane for non-flight instructional purposes, sold it in 1951 to two men for $3,000. The men sold it the same year for $3,300 to a Virginia group which sold it to three others for $12,000.

The plane was finally sold to a purchaser in Mexico for $50,000 and has since been reported flying in Central America.

Steel Sales Higher Than 1956 Earnings

NEW YORK (UP)—Steel companies saw their 1956 earnings rise 0.8 per cent over 1955 on sales that were 8.5 per cent higher, Iron Age magazine said today.

The authoritative trade publication, reporting its annual poll of 28 steel firms representing 93 per cent of the industry's capacity, said higher costs coupled with the 34-day strike held the earnings back.

It pointed out that net income as a per cent of sales was off 7.7 per cent. The survey also showed:

Profits per common share dropped to $6.69 in 1956 from $7.24 in 1955;

Common dividends were up 23 per cent;

Net income as a per cent of investment was off 5.3 per cent;

Invested capital rose more than seven per cent "reflecting the industry's expansion and modernization program."

At the same time, Iron Age reported that the demand for such steel products as sheet and strip continues weak, although heavier products are still in strong demand.

The metalworking weekly said production of sheets, strip, wire, alloy steel and bars will be off again in April.

But it said the May order picture is a little brighter. "A lot depends on how well auto sales come back during the spring selling season."

Iron Age said, however, the mills generally are looking for an upturn in May and June. It noted orders for sheet, manufacturers' wire and mechanical tubing have taken a turn for the better.

The publication said auto companies apparently have not been able to get their steel inventories down to where they want them. "The problem is that poor sales are forcing production cuts which automatically upgrade inventories in terms of days," it said.

Soccer Kicking Spree Planned

PRINCETON, N J. (UP)—Two 19-year-old freshmen hope to kick two soccer balls from Princeton University to New York City and back within 60 hours in a stunt to raise $1,000 for a Negro Episcopal mission in Galveston, Tex.

The freshmen, Robert L. Mendenhall of Manasquan, N.J., and Victor M. Regan Jr. of Hempstead, N.Y., said they will start their 100-mile "dribblethon" May 3. They scheduled a round-trip test run from Princeton to Trenton, N.J. for Saturday.

The money will go to St. Vincent's mission in Galveston. The Negro mission has a white pastor, the Rev. Fred Sutton.

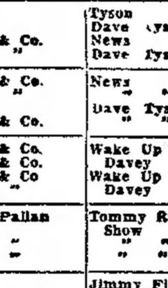
'Television Language' Latest Hollywood Fad

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The latest wrinkle in Hollywood is "television language", and these days you need subtitles to decipher the conversation around town.

Last year those who toil in TV began sentences with "television-wise", or "rating-wise". This season they've switched to "visual language."



Aline Mosby

Take a Hollywood or New York advertising agency account executive who is trying to think up a new TV program for his client to sponsor. He "talks off the top of my head" to the other agency men. "Think big" is their motto.

The agency decides to submit the program idea to the sponsor, or, "Let's drive it into the parking lot and see if we dent any feathers." "Or, let's up periscope and have a look around." or, "Let's send it out airmail and see if it comes back express." or, "Let's follow it and see what it eats."

The reluctant sponsor sighs, "I see pinfeathers on this but you're not flying yet." When the idea gets better the agency man cries, "Lets' throw a blanket on this and keep it warm."

But the final script for the show needs a re-write, so the word is. "We'll have to put this in a traction splint and hope it knits." or, "We've got the motor running but the mixture is a little rich." Those who thought the script was good mutter that the others are needlessly "fly-specking."

But even with a re-write the show at dress rehearsal looks sad. "Quarter after six and all we've got is a bowl of glue," the agency man sighs.

After the show the sponsor cancels, but back at the ad agency the boys shrug. "Well, that's the way the cookie crumbles." or, "That's the way the little ball bounces." Or, "That's the way the banana peels."

The Executives Habitat

For an explanation of this phenomenon, I tracked down an advertising agency executive who works on television shows sponsored by his clients. He was found in his native habitat, a deck chair by the side of his apartment house swimming pool. As he was off-duty he was wearing charcoal gray Bermuda shorts instead of the usual charcoal gray suit.

"You see, in television and agency work a conference may last 15 seconds, and you only have that time to get your point across," he explained. "So you see things in a visual picture.

"If you're over the rough part of a show you're going down hill. If you have to proceed cautiously, you shift into low gear, and so forth."

These fly-specking, big-thinking creatures are usually found in this area at noontime at such fashionable waterholes as the Brown Derby, Bob Dalton's or Barraclough's. They can be identified by their black knit ties and their usual DIET: vodka in cold consume, replacing last season's popular martini-on-the-rocks.

Erie Wants Help On Traffic Tieup

HARRISBURG (UP) — Rep. Delbert W. Dalrymple (R-Erie) said today he will sponsor legislation in the General Assembly to help relieve traffic congestion in downtown Erie. Dalrymple said he was preparing a bill to authorize the state Highways Department to make Pittsburgh Ave. on the city's outskirts a connecting link between Routes 5 and 20. Dalrymple said the link would divert traffic from center city sections.

Talking Yourself to Sleep Is Refreshing

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Every once in a while, a radio or television comedian will go through the routine of talking himself to sleep.

He'll say:

"All right now, go to sleep toes, go to sleep feet, go to sleep fingers, arms," and so on.

It never fails to bring a laugh from the audience.

Actually, this type of suggestion might really help you get to sleep. At least it might help you to relax. And real relaxation is something many of us need in today's speeded-up world.

If you have difficulty getting to sleep tonight, try "talking yourself to sleep." The best position for relaxing probably is on your back.

Close your eyes first. Don't clamp them tight, just sort of let them fall shut. Then let your jaws rest. Keep your lips together lightly. Don't use force to press them together.

Then concentrate, but don't actually talk aloud, on the following:

"Relax arms; relax arms; relax more. Relax more and more and more."

Each time you exhale, think your arms into relaxation.

Then try the same thing with your legs. I don't think there is any need of telling your fingers and toes to relax.

However, your chest should be told to relax, too. Do this in the same manner. As you exhale, think to yourself

"Relax chest; relax chest; relax more and more and more."

Of course you can include your shoulders and even your scalp if you want to.

At first, I think you might spend as long as five minutes on each part of the body. Long before you have completed the process you should be asleep.

If not, at least you should be pretty well relaxed.

As each night passes, it probably will take less and less time to become fully relaxed. It's worth trying

Medical Scholar Claims Emotions Of Mind Cause Diseases of Body

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—A noted medical scholar has accused medical science of failing to face up to the demonstrated fact that diseases of the body can and do originate in the emotions of the mind.

Dr. William Phillips went so far as to propose that the kinds of physical diseases people have depend in some measure on which of the following three emotional groups they fall into:

1. Those who can make no kind of adjustment between their "life situations" and their personalities without outside help. 2. Those in whom unaided partial adjustments are possible. 3. Those in whom "adjustment is more or less readily achieved."

He said he "suspected" that such physical illnesses as ulcerative colitis and migraine are the lot of persons in the first group, but that peptic ulcers and asthma befall persons "in the more benign part of the middle group and perhaps in all parts of the third group."

Ignore Therapeutic Opportunities

In the whole of the third group and in "very much of the second group," he continued, physicians "ignore enormously rewarding therapeutic opportunities" because they are pre-occupied with the purely physical signs of disease and with the idea that these signs must have physical origins.

Dr. Phillips was dealing bluntly with a continuing controversy inside medical science regarding the potency of emotions to bring about body illnesses. He is British and co-editor of a series of medical text books. His recent lecture to the Royal College of physicians is now being discussed argumentatively in American medical circles.

Aside from "prejudice and bias," there are two important things which prevent people from recognizing easily "the effects of emotion on the tissues," he said, continuing:

"On the one hand, the causative disturbance may be unrecognizable except by the trained observer, or, though less subtle, may still be beneath consciousness. Or, on the other hand there may be no symptoms to attract the patient's notice.

"Between these difficulties come these disorders which, though apparent enough, do not make the patient think of an emotional origin —simply because the time-relationship is not impressed on him either by previous experience or by immediacy of effect."

Suspect And Find

These emotional causes, Dr. Phillips said, the physician must suspect and find, and it was his "conviction that with sufficient skill in investigation," many diseases which do not now respond well to physical treatment, would respond to a knowing treatment o the patient's emotions.

He cited his own experience in a military hospital immediately after Dunkirk. The first 1,000 patients sent to him all had been "labeled" by other physicians as suffering from purely physical illness. He made "a careful analysis" and found:

"That 30 per cent had no trace of organic defect and had disabilities which were entirely functional, 40 per cent had some organic signs but had a disability which was wholly functional, while 30 per cent could receive an organic label." But these latter included "peptic ulcer, asthma, and numerous other conditions which I placed in the organic category with considerable cynicism."

Price Fixing Suspected by Toy Companies

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Justice Department acted today to break up an alleged conspiracy to fix toy prices.

It filed a civil anti-trust suit charging the Toy Guidance Council, Inc., of New York and 16 wholesalers with entering into an illegal agreement to eliminate price competition in nationally-distributed toys.

It also announced criminal indictments against Melvin Freud of New York and three toy catalog firms which he heads. The indictments, returned by a federal grand jury in New York, charged a conspiracy to fix retail prices for toys advertised in catalogs distributed by the Toy Guidance Council, the Toy Yearbook, Inc., and Consumer Toy Catalogues, Inc. Freud was listed as president of all three firms.

Co-defendants named with the Toy Guidance Council in the civil case included: Edward K. Tryon Co. Inc., Philadelphia; Bennet M. Seigel, Pittsburgh, and Wilard S. Stull, Kingston, Pa.

Is Elected RR Director

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Otto N. Frenzel, president of the Merchants National Bank & Trust Co., Indianapolis, has been elected a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad, it was announced today.

Frenzel is president of the Indiana Bankers Association, a member of the executive committee of the American Bankers Association, and director of the American States Insurance Co., American United Life Insurance Co., Indianapolis Power & Light Co., and Schwitzer Corp.
